EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

MANY a turkey that gobbles today will be gobbled on Thanksgiving Day. Such is life. It is full of foul play.

THE Sioux Indians are determined to become civilized, and have sent in a request to the government for farming implements.

ACCORDING to the latest census bulletin Pennsylvania is credited with having $474,499,993 invested in manufacturing establishments.

SECRETARY FOLGER'S prediction about a decline in values following Democratic supremacy in Congress isn't being sneered at as it was about thirty days ago.

THE congressional investigating committee is in New Orleans examining the Mississippi river at that point with a view to the contemplated improvements.

PHILADELPHIA seems to have solved the problem of putting the electric light, telegraph and telephone wires under ground, and of successfully operating them.

COLONEL FRANK A. BURR, the well known interviewer of the Press, has accepted a place on the Times. As an accomplished interviewer of public men he has few superiors.

WASHINGTON is already filled with congressmen and senators. There seems to be more unsettled matters on the senate house calendars than can be disposed of at the coming short session.

THE office of the attorney general has been worth about $11,000 per annum, and that's the reason why so many lawyers are willing to assume its responsibilities if Governor Pattison will hand it over to them.

EX-SENATOR ALEXANDER, of Centre county, is said to hanker after the position of secretary of the commonwealth. Perhaps it was promised to him when he got off the track so suddenly in favor of Wallace for senator.—Williamsport G. and B.

KING ALFONSO, of Spain, if reports are true, will now have interesting amusement at home. The socialists have appeared in Catalonia. The Czar has monopolized the cranks for some time past, and he will no doubt be satisfied to divide with his neighbors.

A BOOM has been started for Uncle Jake Zeigler for speaker at Harrisburg, and it is swelling and roaring in every section of the state, and threatens to land the patriarch of Butler in the chair. Faunce will have to look to his laurels if the old parliamentarian is nominated.

IN consequence of the distress along the west coast of Ireland the English government contemplates public donations for the benefit of the poor. The last great famine cost the government £500,000 in direct relief. What the Irish people want, and what they ought to have, is liberal legislation, not charity. No race can prosper on "cold charity."

THE Republican party did relatively better in Pennsylvania this year than in many other States. There was no such complete collapse here as in New York. Even in Massachusetts the change is proportionately more of a revolution. With 43,000 votes cast for an Independent Republican ticket, and with half as many more cast directly for the Democratic candidate, the defeat in this State is less signal than in some others where the conditions seemed more favorable.

A Depressed Iron Market.

We hope that the sudden and unaccountable depression in the iron business in all parts of the country is due solely to some cause which it will be within the power of those who carry on the business to remedy. We have no desire to increase the fear already felt; indeed we caution our readers to be calm and hope for the best. Therefore, without comment, we publish the information given on the subject by a large iron manufacturer to a correspondent of the Philadelphia Press:

MAUCH CHUNK, November 20.—The business depression reported from Scranton and elsewhere is also felt here. In an interview to-night General Lilly, who is largely interested in coal and iron, stated that the business outlook is gloomy. When asked if he considered the depression a result of Democratic victory, he answered: "It is my opinion that public confidence has received a serious shock, but it is impossible to predict how far the effect will extend. Every manufacturer is afraid to move." Inquiry develops the fact that orders given recently for muck and iron from the Weissport Rolling Mill have been countermanded without explanation. On all sides there is uncertainty. None of the mills hereabouts will be stopped or put on reduced time until they are forced to do so by lack of business. Samuel Thomas, president of Thomas' Iron Company, reports a similar state of affairs at Catasauqua and Hokendauqua. He partially admitted, in conversation with General Lilly, that politics is the cause of the present uneasiness in business circles. The laborers throughout Lehigh Valley are anxious about the future, and the feeling is general that Democratic meddling with the tariff may produce serious disaster.

Here is a dispatch which appeared in the Philadelphia Press on the following day:

READING, Nov., 21.—McIlvaine & Sons to-day gave notice that their rolling mill will shut down entirely in about ten days. Three hundred hands will be thrown out of work. William R. McIlvaine, the senior member of the firm, says the mill has been running on old orders, and that since November 7 scarcely any new orders have been received. He said that at present prices manufacturers would lose $5 on every ton of iron turned out.

New men are being taken on in place of those who quit at the pipe mill of the Reading Iron Works, owing to a decrease of 25 per cent. in wages. A trades assembly of the Knights of Labor was formed here to-night.

THE courts are coming to take a broader view of the contract of a marriage engagement than formerly, and it is being held that a woman engaged to a man has material rights which he is bound to respect. For example, a Philadelphia judge recently decided that a declaration of intention to marry carries with it a gift of interest in property, so that a subsequent conveyance of said property by gift to others before the marriage is in the nature of a fraud. In a case where real estate valued at $70,000 was so disposed of, and where the man died four months after marriage, the court held that the conveyance was void, though it had not been made with any intention of wrong toward the fiancee. But the court held that this transfer was incompatible with the equities of a man's relation with his prospective wife.

Comparisons That are Not Odious.

The full official table of the Pennsylvania vote furnishes the basis for some very interesting and instructive comparisons. Mr. Brosius, the candidate for Congressman-at-Large, receives the highest vote on the Republican ticket, leading General Beaver nearly 8000, though McMichael falls less than 3000 behind Stewart. Elliott is over 4700 below Pattison, showing how many Republicans voted for the Democratic governor and the Republican congressman-at-large.

Pattison's plurality is 40,202, but the combined vote for Beaver and Stewart exceeds Pattison's by 3541—proving that notwithstanding the large Republican vote for Pattison, there is still a distinct Republican majority.

Democratic Economy.

We agree with the Philadelphia Press in the opinion the reforms which the Democratic newspapers and Democrats generally are urging upon the Democratic statemen, who will meet at Harrisburg this winter, are mostly such as require no great self-sacrifice on the part of the Democratic party of Pennsylvania. The reforms suggested are chiefly in the way of cutting down the running expenses of the State government. Economy is generally commendable, but it has always been the common device adopted by shrewd politicians to please the public ear. Thomas Jefferson's horseback ride to his inauguration was merely a momentary exhibition of theoretical Democracy on the part of a practical aristocrat. And there is grave danger that the Pennsylvania Democrats, in their enthusiastic determination that Governor-elect Pattison shall have a cheap inauguration, may lose sight of more important measures of reform. Let them take heed lest they strain at the gate and swallow the saw-mill.

After the cheap inauguration idea, nothing has seized so strong a hold upon the Democratic mind as a virtuous indignation at the Legislative Record. A chorus of cries to abolish the Record is heard from one end of the State to the other. The noise is so loud as to cause a doubt as to the sincerity of those who mourn for the money squandered in the publication. Perchance they mourn only because the money so spent cannot be squandered in a pleasanter way to those who might help to scatter it. Undoubtedly the Legislative Record is a useless performance which struggles along in a feeble attempt to catch up to the actual proceedings of the Legislature and never gets any nearer than three weeks behind time; but the Democrats cannot lay claim to any particular virtue in discovering the shortcomings of the publication or in moving to abolish the publication in its present form altogether. These little economies, well enough in their way, are very slight foundations on which to reconstruct a national party.

Republican Movements.

The Republicans of the Twenty-fourth ward of Philadelphia have dropped the past and are moving forward. They have organized the first Blaine Club for 1884. Just a week from election day they held their preliminary meeting, and last Thursday night they completed their organization. Their roll already numbers several hundred, embracing a large proportion of the active working Republicans of the ward.

Lancaster county moves at the same time with a similar organization. The Republicans of Manor township have organized the Garfield-Blaine Club and planted it on the highest ground of progressive Republican principles.

We record these movements as part of the news of the day. It is for the people to make their own expression. Such signs show the unabated spirit of the party. Men are secondary. High Republican purpose is the first object. Irrespective of all personal considerations, the formation of Republican clubs with the broad and lofty aims of that which has been organized in Lancaster is commendable.

AS MIGHT have been foreseen, Italy takes immediate advantage of the embroilment of Austria and Russia to exact from England a representation in the adjudication of the Egyptian question. If Russia is ready to encounter Austria, it is not unlikely that Italy's sudden recognition of her rights on the Nile comes from Russian assurances that she will not be unaided in her pretensions.

THE Democrats were successful this time, but still the Watchman is not content.

A Notable Man.

The Williamsport Gazette and Bulletin, in alluding to the late Thurlow Weed, who died on Wednesday, the 22d, at the ripe age of eighty-five, remarks: He was the last of three great editors of the old school of journalism. Greeley and Raymond preceded him to the grave some years ago. As an adroit politician and party manager he stood without a peer in his day. His great paper, the Albany Evening Journal, which he conducted for many years, became a power in his hands. In his palmy days he was sometimes called the "American Warwick," and his advice was often sought by statesmen and Presidents. Mr. Lincoln called him to Springfield for consultation regarding the formation of his cabinet, and he took a deep interest in his administration during the civil war which followed. It has been very truly said of him that "his life almost spanned the history of this country, under its present constitution. He was born before Washington died, and when Webster, Clay and Calhoun were making their reputations he had edited several country newspapers and fought in the battles of his country. He was older than Seward, or Lincoln, or Greeley, and when Clay, Webster and Calhoun were dead he had not yet actually entered upon the most important part of his career. He was alive when Napoleon's star appeared in the darkness of the French revolution, and was already a young man when the battle of Waterloo was fought. He lived and worked with three generations of public men. Most of the men who are now beginning to attract attention might have been his grandsons. Benjamin Franklin died seven years before Mr. Weed was born. The lives of these two journalists take the world back into the region of Louis XIV, and beyond the birth of Frederick the Great.

IT IS doubtful whether a more extraordinary and significant communication has ever been made by the Attorney General of the United States to the President than the following passage, written by Mr. Brewster to Mr. Arthur touching the star route prosecution:

"I desire to call your attention to the fact that the officers of the law and those who have directly been aiding me in the discharge of my duty in this business have been from the first encircled with snares, pitfalls and every species of vile device that could be invented to harm them, hinder their usefulness and prevent the administration of justice. Some portions of this community who surround these defendants and who have enjoyed, or do still enjoy, minor official positions, know no allegiance to any one but this band of robbers and render no service to any one but their evil employers. From motives of gain or other corrupt considerations they are saturated with affinities for these bad men, and they have contributed by every means in their power, at the bidding of their masters, to obstruct public justice and to defame its officers, with the hope of securing the acquittal of the worst band of organized scoundrels that ever existed since the commencement of the government.

JUDGE WATSON, in his charge to the jury on Tuesday, the 21st inst., in the case of Centre county vs. John Spangler, ex-Sheriff, showed very plainly that it was beyond the jurisdiction of the commissioners to fix a higher price than 25 cents per day as payment for board of prisoners. The evidence, we understand, showed that no attempt was made to have the Court set a price. The verdict of the jury in favor of the county was $1612.97.

CAN any one tell why it was the Democrats did not inaugurate a single one of the many reforms they now promise, while they had it in their power to do so? They had control of the National House of Representatives from 1875 to 1880, and where is there record of "reform?"

THE Watchman indulges in very queer figures. In last week's issue it bunches all the Republican State and county candidates together, giving the total vote cast for them and then shows that General Beaver's vote in Centre county was not quite equal to the average. The fallacy of these figures is apparent to the most careless reader. The vote cast for the Republican county ticket, this fall, was disproportionally larger than usual, some of the candidates coming within a few votes of being elected. The true comparison to institute is to compare General Beaver's vote with the vote cast for the other candidates on the State ticket and the Watchman will find it leads them all. We give them as follows:

Davies	3,163
Greer	3,175
Rawle	3,190
Brosius	3,247
Total vote	12,775
Average	3,193
Beaver's vote	3,299

Beaver's higher than average, 106.

Try and fail again, Mr. Watchman.

ANOTHER BRITISH STATESMAN has been broken down in health from overwork, in the person of Mr. Hugh Childers, Mr. Gladstone's Secretary of War, who, like Sir Stafford Northcote, has been compelled to leave his public duties and go abroad to recuperate. It is rather curious that these two instances should have occurred so soon after Mr. Herbert Spencer's impressive remarks upon the reckless manner in which Americans are ruining their constitutions by undue application to the development of their business, and it would serve to show, were [illegible] demonstrations necessary, that we are not the only people who sometimes try to do too much at first, however, but admitted that, as a general thing, public men retain their strength longer in England than they do here.

THE New York Herald joins in hearty accord with the rest of the Free Trade papers and declares the "tariff must go." It admits that this cannot be done without a sacrifice, nay, even the sacrifice of the State of Pennsylvania. Speaking of the Democratic Congress it says; "They can scarcely avoid reforming the tariff. To fight shy of this subject, or trim as Mr. Randall and other Pennsylvanians did in the last session, would cover them with ridicule and insure their defeat. But if they are to be honest tariff reformers they must count on losing Pennsylvania. With proper efforts they would, of course, carry Northwestern States enough to much more than counterbalance Pennsylvania, but they must have courage to face the loss."

OWING to an erroneous report in the New York Sun to the effect that John L. Sullivan was in hiding for having killed a Washington blacksmith, there is likely to be a large number of vacancies on the staff of our esteemed New York contemporary. Mr. Sullivan is not a discriminating man when he begins to clean out a newspaper office, and in his present humor there are indications that he would just as willingly knock Mr. Dana's head against that of the junior reporter as to pick out the responsible heads of departments and shake them up in the same bag. As soon as the entertainment begins the Tribune will issue frequent bulletins, accompanied by maps from the bloody seat of war. No carriages. No flowers.

THE sale of 3,000,000 acres of land by the Northern Pacific Railroad Company is confirmed. The company receives four dollars per acre, which will be paid for in the preferred stock of the company at par. This stock will be retired under the provisions of the charter. The syndicate making the heavy purchase is headed by Bearing Brothers, the well-known English bankers. It is proposed to colonize the land, all of which is situated east of the Missouri river, with carefully selected English families.

GENERAL NOTES.

Diphtheria has closed the Bloomsburg schools.

In Hungary children are taught in seven different languages.

A New York society lady claims to have made $125,000 by the recent rise in oil.

John Mallery died last week in Brooklyn, of lockjaw, caused by a wound from a toy pistol.

Joseph Anderson, a Greenburg young man aged twenty-two years, is in jail charged with bigamy.

The Khedive is prepared to refer to Great Britain the question of proceeding with Arabi Pacha's trial.

It is said that the British Government has approved Baker Pasha's scheme for an Egyptian gendarmerie.

The fierce discussion in England in regard to cremation has brought forth a great many advocates of the practice.

A National bank is to be organized at West Chester with a capital of $100,000, and the Hon. Samuel Butler as president.

At a recent Vermont squirrel hunt by two teams of eighteen men each of the winners counted 13,090 to the losers' 5010.

The wife of Michael Caffrey, in Newark, N. J., was burned to death on Wednesday morning, the 22d, by falling upon the stove while in a fit.

A French traveler has obtained from a local sovereign the possession of the bay of Tajoorah, on the African side of the Gulf of Aden.

Mr. Giffen, of the British statistical society, thinks the growth of the population in the United States will, if continued, cause great difficulties.

A company has been organized in Pittsburgh with a capital of $750,000, to manufacture spikes and nails of steel. The works will be located near McKeesport.

There were 167 failures in the United States reported during the past week, 18 more than in the preceding week, and 51 more than the corresponding week of last year.

William Pray, of Frankford, Pa., had a family of seven children. Five of them have died with diphtheria and the two remaining ones are very low with the same disease.

An explosion of gunpowder, caused by an accident, occured in the barracks at Madrid, Spain. Nearly the whole building was blown to pieces, and fifteen soldiers were injured.

Some boys played highwaymen at Green, Ill. The first man whom they had fun with carried a heavy cane, and he struck a blow in dead earnest, fracturing the skull that it hit.

A workman in the ore beds at Furnaceville, New York, on the Rome Watertown and Ogdenburg railroad, had his hand cut off by a switch engine on Tuesday evening of last week.

The Pioneer iron foundry and four lumber mills in Burlington, Vt., were burned on Wednesday morning, the 22d. Loss, $50,000. About 400 men are thrown out of employment by this fire.

The Archbishop of Canterbury's health is not equal to the duties of his position, and he is likely to resign it. On retirement he will enjoy a third ($25,000 a year) of the revenue of the see and a residence.

During the year ending August 31 there were completed in Texas 1,641 miles of railroad, at an estimate cost for construction and equipment of $44,535,000, thus giving the State a total of 5,908 miles at a cost of $165,806,900.

The almost daily record of one or more suicides in Rome, or attempts at suicide, included the other day that of a man who threw himself from the Tarpeian rock. He was taken to the hospital with both legs broken and skull fractured.

The great observatory built and equipped by ex-Gov. Washburn as a gift to Madison (Wis.) University will be ready for presentation and use as soon as the imported meridian circle which cost $4,000, and which has just arrived, can be tested.

Over 1,000 sugar houses through twenty-seven parishes in Louisiana are now in operation. The welfare of at least 150,000 laborers depends upon the result of the present work, and $40,000,000 of capital are awaiting the returns on the investment.

A girl of Waukon, Iowa, being excessively fond of babies, borrowed one of a neighbor for a day. It fell into a fire and was burned to death. The girl was not immediately the cause of the accident, and yet she was so grieved and frightened by it that she died within an hour.

Sheep culture is no longer a matter of doubt or experiment in the Arkansas Valley. Numerous streams of pure running water, tame and wild grasses, cheap food, and market facilities present great inducements to sheep owners. From a very small beginning made about five years ago the business has increased to good proportions.

At the Sloss furnace, at Birmingham, Alabama, two colored men who had been lowered into the furnace with ropes to clear out what is known as a "scaffold," which had formed in the stack, were overcome by gas and fell to the bottom into a mass of burning ore and coal. The bodies, charred to the bones, were recovered an hour afterwards.

Owing to the insecurity of the Paris streets as proved by the alarming number of murderous assaults revealed at the correctional police courts, M. Camescasse, the Prefect of Police, has asked that three hundred men be added to his force of sergents de ville. Even this increase is considered altogether insufficient under existing circumstances.

A platform, containing a large quantity of ice, on Wednesday evening of last week, tumbled down into the bottom of the new air shaft of the Oxford colliery, at Scranton. It fell a distance of 125 feet, among a number of sinkers, who were working at the bottom of the pit. Hopkins Hughes and Patrick Rochfort were killed, and James Roberts, William Hayes and Thomas Walkins, the contractor, were probably fatally injured.

Poetry.

THE COTTAGE GATE.

In the sultry time of mowing,
When the fields are full of hay,
Pretty Janet brings her sewing
To the gate, at close of day.

Do you wonder that she lingers—
Often glances down the lane?
Do you ask me why her fingers
Seem to find their work a strain.

Love-dreams hold her in their tether
Love is often—as we know—
Idle in the summer weather,
Idlest in the sunset glow.

Now he leans upon the railing,
Tells her all about the hay;
Still his pain seems unavailing—
Very little will she say.

Is it but capricious feigning?
Learn a lesson from the rose,
Peerless 'mong her sisters reigning,
Fairest flower that ever blows.

Not at once she flaunts her petals—
First a bud of sober green,
By and by the stretching sepals
Show a dash of red between.

Breezes rock her, sunbeams woo her,
Wind and wider does she start;
Opens all her crimson treasures,
Yields the fragrance at her heart.

Alas! the rose-buds will not render
All their secret in one day,
And the maiden, shy and tender,
Is as difficult as they.

OUR OWN.

If I had known in the morning
How wearily all the day
The words unkind
Would trouble my mind
I said when you went away,
I had been more careful, darling,
Nor given you needless pain;
But we vex "our own"
With look and tone
We might never take back again.

For though in the quiet evening
You may give me the kiss of peace,
Yet well it might be
That never for me
The pain of the heart should cease.
How many go forth in the morning
Who never come home at night;
And hearts have broken
For harsh words spoken
That sorrow can never set right.

We have careful thoughts for the stranger
And smiles for the sometime guest,
But oft for "our own"
The bitter tone,
Though we love our own the best.
Ah! life with the curve impatient;
Ah! brow with that look of scorn,
'Twere a cruel fate
Were the night too late
To undo the work of morn.

Our Story Teller.

Uncle Cuthbert.

"Hush! it is Clarence Hyde's step!"

And Rosa Eldon sprang to her feet rosy and smiling, with the freshly plucked heliotrope trembling among her glossy brown braids, and her pretty blue dress floating round her like an azure cloud.

Only eighteen, and very fair and lovely was our little Rosa—a trifle spoiled and willful, perhaps, but what else could one expect? Every one petted and made much of her—every one smiled at her pretty kittenish ways—and Clarence Hyde thought her the fairest specimen of feminine humanity that ever the sun shone on!

Rosa Eldon made room for her sister, Lizzy, just one year younger, and scarcely less fair, yet very different in character. Lizzy was quiet and sage and demure, while Rosa rattled away like a merry mountain stream flowing over its mossy stones. Lizzy thought her sister perfection, while Rosa was always lecturing Lizzy in a capricious fashion, and laying down the law to her after the most approved manner of elder sisters.

"How nice it must be to be engaged!" said Lizzy, with a half encouraging smile, as Rosa paused at the glass to adjust her hair. "I wish I were engaged!"

"You? Oh, you are nothing but a child," Rosa said, patronizing-ly. "There—give me my pocket-handkerchief!"

And away she went, light and lithe as a blue-winged butterfly.

Clarence Hyde was in the parlor, anxiously awaiting her coming, but Clarence had rather a disturbed face. He was a well made, handsome young fellow, with laughing, wine-brown eyes, straight features, and brown hair thrown back from a broad, frank brow.

"Why what makes you look so sober?" was Rosa's first archquestion, when the ceremonials of greeting were gone through with, and she had had time to take a good look into his face.

"Sober? Do I?"

He was playing rather restlessly with the crimson cord that looped back the white muslin draperies of the pretty bay window that made Mrs. Eldon's cottage look like one of the lovely rustic habitations you see in old English engravings.

"Exactly as if you had the tooth ache or a bad conscience."

Clarence laughed in spite of himself.

"You are wrong, then, my little riddle-guesser; I am afflicted with neither the one nor the other."

"Well what is it, then?"

"Rosa, what would you say if it were to become necessary to defer our marriage for some time?"

A shadow came over the infantine bloom and freshness of Rosa's face.

"To defer our marriage, Clarence? I don't imagine what you mean."

"Listen, Rosa, and I will tell you. My uncle has just come from California very poor, and a confirmed invalid. I am his only surviving relative, and to me he naturally appeals for protection and companionship. I must give him a home, Rosa! You know I had laid up just enough to begin housekeeping in a quiet, economical sort of way, but this new plan will necessarily alter all my arrangements."

"I never heard of any uncle before."

"No, dearest; I knew very little of him—nothing personally, as he never visited my father during his life time."

Rosa's face was turned away from Clarence Hyde's. She was silently twisting a bit of paper round and round her slender fore-fingers.

"Rosa," he said, after waiting a minute or two for her to make some remark, "tell me honestly, dear one, which would you prefer—to begin housekeeping on this new scale—one humbler and more frugal than I had originally hoped and intended—or to defer our marriage until I can earn enough to carry out those original arrangements?"

She was silent for a moment, then she answered, in a voice which seemed to chill Clarence's buoyant young heart:

"Neither!"

"Rosa," he exclaimed, "I do not understand you!"

"I spoke plainly enough. Neither!"

"Do you mean that——"

"I mean that you must either give up your uncle or me. After all that has been said and known of our engagement, after its publicity and length, I certainly cannot consent to its further postponement. And we shall be poor enough, if we marry immediately, without filling our house with a host of needy relatives."

Clarence Hyde looked at his fair fiancee in perfect amazement. Never in the whole course of their acquaintance had he seen this phase of her character. He had fancied her all that was sweet, pure, and womanly. Could it be possible that she was cold-hearted, selfish, and dead to all the sweet ties of nature?

"Rosa," he said, mournfully, "is this to part us?"

"It is for you to say."

"Do you wish me to give up my poor, dependent uncle?"

"Either him or me," Rosa answered, indifferently.

"It will be hard—very hard, for me to lay aside the brightest wishes of my life," he said, earnestly. "but, Rosa, duty is my first object. I cannot leave my uncle to wear out his few remaining days in poverty and solitude."

"Very well," answered Rosa, carelessly stooping to pick up the odorous purple blossom which had fallen from her hair, "then we will consider our engagement dissolved."

"And you can give me up so readily, Rosa?"

"Oh," said Rosa, a little impatiently, "where's the use of being romantic about it? You have chosen your part, I have chosen mine. So let it be!"

Clarence Hyde took his leave, dejected enough. It is not pleasant to set up a fair idol and worship it with all the strength and tenderness of your nature, only to find, after all, that it is dust and ashes—hollow-hearted and false!

Clarence Hyde was smoking his brierwood meerschaum by the open window as Clarence entered—a square, shrewd-looking little old man, with deeply seamed wrinkles on his brow, and restless, sparkling eyes gleaming like live coals beneath his shaggy brows.

"I have told you about Rosa Eldon, sir—well, she and I are—in fact, it is all over between us!"

"Engagement broken, eh? Past the power of patching up?"

"Yes, uncle!"

"And it was on my account? Nay, boy, don't turn away—I can read the truth in your eyes. So she's played you false?"

"We are parted, uncle—is not that enough?"

"Clarence, my boy something has gone wrong," he said, brusquely, after he had regarded his nephew in silence for awhile. "Tell the old uncle what it is."

"Well, perhaps so—perhaps so! It was well you found her out in time, Clarence. It's for the best, my boy."

Clarence Hyde was passing down the village street a day or two subsequently, toward dusk of a mellow August evening, when a slight form glided up to him and a tremulous hand was laid upon his own. He started at first, but quickly recognized the face and figure.

"Lizzy Eldon!"

"Oh, Clarence, I could not rest without telling you how very, very wrong I thought Rosa, and how sorry I am for you."

"Thanks, Lizzy. I do not think she has treated me exactly right."

Lizzy burst into tears.

"How could she be so cruel—so unwomanly? You were right, Clarence—you acted nobly! I think Rosa will one day live to repent it."

As Clarence stood there listening to Lizzy Eldon's impetuous words and holding her soft little hand in his own, he wondered that he had never before noticed how very, very pretty she was—a softer, more subdued style of beauty than Rosa's yet not less bewitching in its way.

They haunted him all the night long, that oval, earnest face, those swimming blue eyes!

Day by day Rosa's image waxed fainter and more faint in his memory, and Lizzie's shy, gentle looks grew more ever present in his heart.

"I do believe I've fallen in love with the girl," he thought. "I wonder what she would say if I were to propose to her?"

Next to the wonder came its realization. One fine October day, when they had strayed a little away from the gay nutting party, whose voices made the old yellow-leaved woods musical, Mr. Hyde asked Lizzie Eldon if she would accept the love her sister had slighted, and Lizzie, smiling and trembling, answered yes!

"You see, Uncle Cuthbert," said Clarence, eagerly, as he explained the new position of affairs to his uncle that evening, after he had safely escorted Lizzie home, with her basket of nuts only half filled (and no wonder, all things considered)! "it will be so pleasant. We shall all live together, and Lizzie says she will love you dearly. Lizzie is such a famous little housekeeper! She thinks it will be so pleasant to have you sitting by our hearth-stone! And, uncle, you will go to see her to-morrow, won't you?"

"Yes," said Uncle Cuthbert, briefly, "I'll go."

And the next day Lizzie was surprised at her sewing by a brown-faced little old man, who abruptly took both her hands in his, and imprinted a kiss upon her crimsoning forehead, just as if he were the oldest acquaintance in the world!

"So you're going to marry my nephew, Lizzie, are you?" said Uncle Cuthbert.

"Yes, sir," Lizzie made answer, timidly.

"And you love him, Lizzie?"

"And you won't object to having the old man lumbering round the house, helpless and feeble though he be?"

"I shall be glad to have you live with us, sir, for I never remember my father—and—and you will be like one to me, I am sure."

Uncle Cuthbert kissed her again, and walked away as abrubtly as he had come.

"He's a very funny old gentleman," thought Lizzie, "but I know I shall like him."

Rosa contemplated the present peculiar state of affairs very coolly—a little contemptuously, in fact.

"If you choose to adopt all Clarence Hyde's poor relations, why, I can only wonder at your taste," said she loftily.

Lizzie only smiled, and doubted to herself whether Rosa could ever have really loved Clarence.

"No, no, no!" echoed her heart.

The day of the wedding drew near. Lizzie's white dress was nearly finished, and modest little presents were beginning to be sent in from friends and neighbors.

"Here's my present," said Uncle Cuthbert, walking in one day and tossing a little box of carved wood into Lizzie's lap. "I cut out those wooden flowers myself when I was in California."

"Oh, uncle, what a dear little box," said Lizzie, smiling her bright thanks, while Rosa elevated her nose rather contemptuously.

"Well, but open it; it's lined beautifully," persisted the old man.

Lizzie obeyed.

"Why, there's a parchment chart in it, uncle," cried the astonished Clarence, who was leaning over Lizzie's shoulder.

"Of course there is—a deed making over fifty thousand dollars to Lizzie Eldon, the day of her marriage," answered Uncle Cuthbert, gruffly, "and I've got just another one for you, at home, Clarence, my boy! Aha! the old uncle wasn't so very poverty-stricken, after all. You mustn't think, my young lady," he added, turning abruptly to Rosa, "that gold isn't gold, because it's a trifle rusty and tarnished. Appearances aren't everything in this world!"

And so Clarence and Lizzy began the world with the fairest of prospects, and true love enough to float the bark of life into its sweetest haven.

Rosa Eldon was somewhat chagrined in her secret soul, but she wisely kept her feelings to herself, and old Uncle Cuthbert was quite satisfied with the choice his nephew had made.

"She's worth twice a hundred thousand dollars in her own sweet self, Clarence," he said, confidentially, to Mr. Hyde, Junior.—Helen Forrest Graves

A Sea Bath in Winter.

A fresh delight discovered by our fashionable woman isn't fresh at all, decidedly salt. The idea spread among them last summer that sea bathing had a rejuvenating effect. The consequences is that they established fountains of youth in their bath rooms—that is to say, they put rock salt in the tubs and pickle themselves. The strictly proper thing is to take off your night gown on arising in the morning, and put on a wrapper made of red blanket. This unique garment should be trimmed with the borders which finish the blanket ends, else the medicinal effect may be lost. Thus, warmly wrapped you go to the bath room, turn on the hot and cold water, and throw in a pint of salt. When the tub is nearly full you doff your wrapper, take a header into the water, kick up a realistic surf, perhaps get a chance mouthful of the brine, and imagine you are in the real salt sea.

Christian and Heathen Hospitality.

A comparison between the hospitality of our government and that of the Japanese to distressed seaman is well illustrated by the recent case of the "Bremen," which went ashore. No cutter or government vessel was sent out to protect property. In the case of Japan, the American ship "Surprise" was wrecked in February, 1378, on the Plymouth Rocks, and was abandoned with all sail set. A Japanese man-of-war was sent to her assistance. The crew furled all the sails and remained alongside to prevent fishermen from stealing and property was safely protected. The "Bremen" was left in a hurry and not a man or vessel has been sent by the government to gaurd her, and, as a consequence, the effects of the captain and officers and even of the crew have been appropriated by fishermen and others who scour the seas for prey.

Expert Criticism.

"Good day, gentlemen."

A very nice looking young man stood in the door way of the editorial room and gazed in a benign way at the occupants of the apartment.

"Would it be possible for me to sell the Tribune a story," he continued.

"What kind of a story have you ground out?" asked the horse reporter.

"The story," said the visitor, "is one in which the triumph of love is depicted, and—"

"It isn't one of those 'and as Ethel stood there in the soft moonlight her lithe figure sharply outlined against the western sky, there was a loud crash in Coastcliff Castle, and the girl knew that her mother had dropped the doughnut jar' kind of stories, is it—because they won't do," said the horse reporter.

"There is nothing at all about doughnuts in this story," remarked the visitor, rather haughtily, "but if you like I can read a portion of it."

"All right."

"Where shall I begin?"

"Anywhere," replied the reporter. "Suppose you give us the last sentence of it."

"I should hardly think—"

"Oh, never mind about that. We do all the thinking for young authors that come up here."

The visitor seated himself and read as follows:

"For answer Glady's beautiful eyes drooped, but she gave him both her hands, and there under the heavy fringed trees, the golden bees flying all about them, and the air filled with their dreamy monotone, he drew her to his breast, and raising her long ringlets to his lips, kissed them reverently."

"That's the last sentence, is it?" asked the horse reporter.

"Yes, sir."

"I should hope it was. It makes me tired to read about such ducks."

"Why, I don't see——," began the author.

"Of course you don't. Probably you were the hero of the novel. Did you ever hear of Thompson's colt!"

The visitor admitted his ignorance concerning the historical animal.

"Well, Thompson's colt," continued the horse reporter, "was such an eternal idiot that he swam across the river to get a drink. Now, that fellow in your story is a dead match for him."

"I don't understand——"

"Probably not. It is not to be expected of literary people. But I will tell you; this young fellow in your story is out under an apple tree holding a girl's hands, isn't he?"

"Yes."

"And, according to the story, he 'raised her long ringlets to his lips, and kissed them reverently.' That right?"

"Certainly."

"Now, what do you think of a young man that would go nibbling around a girl's back hair when she had her face with her? Such stories do not possess the fidelity to nature that should ever characterize the work of genius. No, my genial imbecile, you cannot get the weight of this powerful journal on the side of any such young man as your story depicts. We were once young and up to the apple tree racket ourselves."

"Good day," said the author, starting for the door.

"So long," was the response. "Make George act like a white man in your story, and come around again."

A Speech of the Day.

"My son," said an Ontario street mother, "go down to the grocery and get me a can of green peas."

"I should squirm to wiggle," answered the boy.

"Go on, I tell you."

"I should limp to jump."

"If you don't go this instant I will tell your father when he comes home.'

"I should blow to tattle."

"Never mind, sir."

"I should whoop to squeal."

When the father came the mother said:

"I wish that you would whip Tom. He positively refused to go down to the grocery, and told me that I was a tattler, and that he would jump on me if I didn't mind."

"Tom."

"Yes, sir."

"What was that you said to your mother to-day?"

"Never said nothing."

"Then I am a story teller and you are a pretty boy," said the mother.

"Look here, young man, if you don't behave yourself, I'll thrash you, do you hear, sir?"

"I should titter to snort."

"Come here to me, sir," and the young man squirmed to wiggle, limped to jump, blew to tattle, whooped to squeal and tittered to snort.

The Angler.

Mr. Wright went out to fish.
And he became a Wright angler.
He thought he would try and catch a shark.
And became a try angler.
He laughed to think how smart he was.
And he became a cute angler.
But he did not see the shark with its nose under the stern of his craft.
He was such an obtuse angler.
Until the creature tipped over his boat.
When he became a wrecked angler.—Whitehall Times.

Wavy hair is becoming exceedingly popular among the ladies. It is understood that "bangs" are going out of fashion.

Not Worth It.

A citizen of Michigan who has something of a reputation for his infidel views and arguments happened to meet seven or eight clergymen at a railroad station as they were waiting to take the train to attend a conference, and introducing himself to one of them said:

"I want half an hour's talk with the smartest one of your crowd. Who is he!"

"Well, Brother White is pretty smart," was the reply.

The infidel walked up to the clergyman named and bluntly began:

"Preacher White, you hold that there is a God, don't you?"

"Yes, sir.'

"And a heaven and a hell?"

"Yes, sir."

"And that none but believers can be saved?"

"Just so."

"Well, sir, I don't believe any such thing, and I will defy you to convince me."

"I shan't try to, sir."

"You won't? Don't you want me to be saved?"

"No, sir—no, sir! I wouldn't waste five minutes to send you straight to heaven."

"Why not?"

"Why not? Why, sir, folks been going to heaven by the million for thousands of years, and there is such a crowd up there that a small soul like yours could no more be found or heard of than an atom of sand thrown into the middle of the ocean. It's too small potatoes to pay for the hoeing!"

Saved by a Miracle.

About 5 o'clock Friday evening another accident occurred at the Erie rolling mill, making the second narrow escape from death within the past two or three days. Mr Palmer, the superintendent, went into the engine room to ascertain the cause of some unusual noise made by the engine, and while making his examination the large driving belt 18 inches wide, parted in twain, and striking Mr. Palmer a terrible blow lifted him from his feet into the air and in descending he fell through a hole in the floor. Weighing 200 pounds, he struck on his head and shoulders with great violence but an inch from the immense fly wheel making 300 revolutions per minute. Although badly stunned he had presence of mind to lie perfectly still until the machinery was stopped, when he was carried into an adjoining house and Dr. Spencer summoned by telephone. The doctor found the injuries to consist of a severe contusion of the head and forehead with an abrasion of the skin as large as the palm of the hand which was terribly swollen. Two ribs were also fractured on the right side, and there was a severe contusion of the left knee, besides slight bruises and scratches on different parts of the body while the fall caused some concussion of the brain. Taking it all together the injuries at present do not seem to be very serious. It is a miracle that he was not instantly killed.

A Sleepy Actor.

While Joseph Jefferson was once playing Rip Van Winkle at Chicago, he went to the theatre very much exhausted by a long day's fishing on the lake. When the curtain rose on the third act, it disclosed the white haired Rip still deep in his twenty years nap. Five, ten, twenty minutes passed, and he did not waken. The audience began to get impatient, and the prompter uneasy. The great actor doubtless knew what he was about, but this was carrying the "realistic" business too far. The fact was that all this time Jefferson was really sleeping the sleep of the just or rather of the fisherman who had sat eight hours in the sun without getting a single bite. Finally the gallery became uproarious, and one of the "gods" wanted to know if there was going to be nineteen years more of this snooze business. At this point Jefferson began to snore. This decided the prompter, who opened a small trap beneath the stage and began to prod Rip from below. The much traveled commedian began to fumble in his pocket for an imaginary ticket, and mumbled drowsily. "Going right through, 'ductor." The audience was transfixed with amazement at this entirely new reading, when Jefferson sat up, with a loud shriek, and evidently in agony. The exasperated prompter had "jabbed" him with a pin. The play went on—with a rush.

A Level-Headed Judge.

A Memphis magistrate had before him last week a young man who figured at a masked ball the night before as George Washington, to whom, however, his resemblance was so entirely superficial that he became drunk and abusive before the night was over. The magistrate pronounced sentence in the following homely but emphatic language: "Now, if you had got drunk as a private citizen, and had cussed and ripped around as such, I should have fined you $5; but inasmuch as you appeared at the masked ball and committed the offense while personating the character of George Washington, the reverend father of his country, I will have to stick you for $20. I won't have this business brought into disrepute.

Accuracy of expression: A family who have recently moved into a suite of rooms received an elegantly-worked motto last week, which read as follows: "Heaven bless our flat."

All Sorts.

Left: Pat. "An' is it the next train for Boston ye want? Faith, that wint an hour ago, sorr."

"Why is a young man like a kernel of corn?" asked a young lady. "Because," said another, "he turns white when he pops."

A dangerous animal: The posse is much more dangerous than the panther. A man was killed by a posse in Arkansas the other day.

Where in the dews have you been?—as Mrs. Smith remarked when her boy came in with wet feet after a ramble through the fields.

This beautiful country is "loved" by those foreigners who feed on the fat of the land and hear the merry jingle of our gold in their purse.

A man in South Mentor, Ohio, who recently celebrated his one hundred and second birthday, is said to have attended always to his own business.

"Kissmee" is the name of a thriving town in Florida. Young ladies living there do not dare to name the place of their residence in the hearing of strangers.

A definition: "Pa, what is an employment agent?" "Why, my son, he is a man who is very anxious to get work for others to do. He himself doesn't want any.

A North country fishwoman went to buy a dress. "None of your gaudy colors for me," she said at once to the man at the counter; "give me plain red and yaller.

The whole pork or nothing. Mistress—"Were you baptized, Keziah, when you were named?" Maid—"Law, ma'am, we don't baptize in our church; we immerge."

Sad affair: While putting on a clean shirt a Hartwell, Ga., man fell over a trunk and broke his collarbone. But he says he's going to try it again when he gets well.

The latest thing in sporting: Playing foot ball by electric light has been tried in London without success. The players threw themselves by kicking at the shadows of other players' heads.

A ghost made its appearance in Evansville the other night and ran against a bull dog. The doctor says it will be long weeks before the young man can do another cunning thing.

The Presidents of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals in Washington caused the arrest of two men the other day for carrying live chickens home from market by the legs.

"En Passant?"—"What are you always thinking about, Ida?" "I'm always thinking about nothing, auntie. I never think about anything, unless I happen to think of something to think about."

There seems to be a great kick, so to speak, about ladies wearing their hats in the theatre, but not a single complaint has reached us thus far for inveighing against their keeping them on at church.

Rallying—Doctor (sotto voce to colleague): "We must reduce the fever and abate the thirst!" Patient, who had overheard: "If you'll reduce the fever, gentlemen, I'll hould' take to abate the thirst myself!"

A Chicago man has invented a cast-iron table-ware that looks just like porcelain, and is in ecstasies when he sees a servant girl drop half a dozen cups and shriek with horror at observing their failure to break.

Against the grain: Widow woman (to chemist who was weighing a grain of calomel in dispensing a prescription for her sick child)—"Man, ye needna' be sae schrimpy wi't; 't is for a puir fatherless bairn!"

Lot's wife looked back—probably to see what some other wife had on—and she became a pillar of salt. If such acts were to be followed by such fearful results to-day, there would not be a fresh woman in the world.

A young man recently died in Ohio who was engaged to marry four young ladies. The fact was developed when the four went to the funeral. If that young man had lived what a politician he would have made!

The Fliegende Blatter is the great German funny paper. We are not very well up in our German this afternoon, but we think it means something about the fly in the butter or batter, we're not positive which. But it's all the same in Dutch.

Mistaken as to the animal: A woman lately looked at a printing press at work, turned to her companion and in a most earnest manner inquired: "Well, Charley, an' thems the things as writes the papers. Be's them what they call editors?"

Crushed, indeed: A youthful aspirant to poet's honors, whose maiden attempt bore the title of "Simply to Thy Cross I Cling," was struck dumb with horror when it appeared in the next weekly edition of the town paper under the title of "Simple Little Cross-Eyed Thing."

No more touching compliment could be paid than that of the child who had overheard a conversation at the table on the qualities of a wife. As he stooped over to kiss his mother, he remarked: "Mamma, when I get big I'm going to marry a lady just 'zactly like you."

Johnny, aged 12, ran into the house and exclaimed in well feigned astonishment "O Ma! I saw a little baby out here with only two ears and one nose!" "Good gracious!" exclaimed the startled mother in a single breath, throwing up her hands. "Good gracious! you don't tell me; the poor little dear. How did it happen?"

The Chickens.

Said the first little chicken,
With a queer little squirm,
"I wish I could find
A fat little worm!"

Said the next little chicken,
With an odd little shrug;
"I wish I could find
A fat little bug!"

Said the third little chicken,
With a sharp little squeal;
"I wish I could find
Some nice yellow meal!"

Said the fourth little chicken,
With a small sigh of grief;
"I wish I could find
A green little leaf!"

Said the fifth little chicken,
With a faint little moan;
"I wish I could find
A wee gravel-stone!"

"Now, see here!" said the mother,
From the green garden-patch;
"If you want any breakfast,
Just come here and scratch!"

What Came of Passing the Salt.

A real romance occurred lately in a hotel in Montreal. In the hotel the road agent of a respectable company boarded while in the city. In the same hotel an American young lady was was domiciled. The lady was pleasant and accomplished. The young gentleman at first viewed the lady admiringly and at a distance but too timid to approach. Day by day his interest grew stronger. He had never spoken to her nor she to him, and so far as he was concerned this is what he most earnestly desired she might do. In this dilemma he applied to a friend for advice. "Do you eat at the same table?" asked the friend. "Yes," was the reply. "Then I would advise you the next time you dine to ask the lady to pass the salt." "All right," sighed the love sick hero. The following day he intended to put his friend's advice into operation, but was most delightfully baulked by the lady asking him to "please pass the salt." From that moment the ice was broken, till at last the lady asked for the gentleman's card, in order that she might know who she was conversing with. The gentleman at once handed the lady his business card. Matters then went on smoothly, all the while the couple enjoying each other's company at concerts, operas, &c. At length this state of affairs was brought to a crisis. The lady was about to return to the States. The lover was perplexed, and again applied to his friend for advice, who at once advised him to pop the question and thus settle anxiety. She was willing to become one with him. The question then came when the happy day would be. She replied "to-morrow." To this the gentleman at first demurred, as he had certain business matters to fix. She told him to leave them alone and write to his employers resigning his situation and leave the rest to her. He complied, they were married, and went to the States, where the Canadian gentleman learned that he had married a young widow worth $250,000. In his happiness he did not forget the friend who had advised him. He sent that gentleman a check for $2,000, with a letter of thanks for his kind advice in enabling him to become a rich and happy man, through the possession of a handsome and loving woman. The gentleman who tendered the advice felt dubious as to the reality of the check and did not present it at the bank for some days. At last he put the matter to a test, and was informed that the money had been lying in the bank at his order for a number of days. And so the romance ended, to the satisfaction of all interested.

——"Mr. Davis," said the farmer's wife, "I bought six pounds of sugar here the other day, and when I got it home I found a stone weighing three pounds in the package!" "Yes, ma'am." "Can you explain such a swindle, sir?" "I think I can," he placidly replied. "When I weighed your eight pounds of butter the other day I found a three pound stone in the crock, and when I weighed your sugar the stone must have slipped into the scales. We are both growing old, Mrs. Jones, and I presume our eyesight has become more or less affected!" She looked at him for half a minute over her brass-bound spectacles, and then said she had three dozen eggs which she wanted to exchange for some hooks and eyes and red shirt buttons.

Snatched from the Grave.

My wife was at the brink of the grave. She had been given up to die by three of Allegheny City's best physicians. They all pronounced her disease consumption. Her fingernails and lips were blue; was pulseless at the wrist; we were all called to witness her death. At this moment a neighbor brought in Dr. Hartman, who prescribed a teaspoonful of Peruna every hour. She improved from the first dose, and in a week she was up, and now (less than six months) she is well. See page 30 in the "Ills of Life," a book you can get gratis of your druggist. If not, address Dr. Hartman, Osborn, Ohio.

Medical.

Disease is an effect, not a cause. Its origin is within; its manifestations are without. Hence, to cure the disease the Cause must be removed, and in no other way can a cure be effected. WARNER'S SAFE KIDNEY AND LIVER CURE is established on just principles. It realizes that of all diseases arise from deranged kidneys and liver, and it strikes at once at the root of the difficulty. The elements of which it is composed act directly upon these great organs, both as a food and restorer, and by placing them in a healthy condition, drive disease and pain from the system.

95 Per Cent.

For the innumerable troubles caused by unhealthy Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs; for the distressing Disorders of Women; for Malaria, and for physical derangements generally, this great remedy has no equal. Beware of imposters, imitations and concoctions said to be just as good.

PLAIN TRUTHS

The blood is the foundation of life, it circulates through every part of the body, and unless it is pure and rich, good health is impossible. If disease has entered the system the only sure and quick way to drive it out is to purify and enrich the blood.

These simple facts are well known, and the highest medical authorities agree that nothing but iron will restore the blood to its natural condition; and also that all the iron preparations hitherto made blacken the teeth, cause headache, and are otherwise injurious.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS will thoroughly and quickly assimilate with the blood, purifying and strengthening it, and thus drive disease from any part of the system, and it will not blacken the teeth, cause headache or constipation, and is positively not injurious.

Feb. 12, 1880.

Gents:—Upon the recommendation of a friend I tried BROWN'S IRON BITTERS as a tonic and restorative for my daughter, whom I was thoroughly convinced was wasting away with Consumption. Having lost three daughters by the terrible disease, under the care of eminent physicians, I was loth to believe that anything could arrest the progress of the disease, but, to my great surprise, before my daughter had taken one bottle of BROWN'S IRON BITTERS, she began to mend and now is quite restored to former health. A fifth daughter began to show signs of Consumption, and when the physician was consulted he quickly said "Tonics were required;" and when informed that the elder sister was taking BROWN'S IRON BITTERS, responded "that is a good tonic, take it."

What Garrett Said.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 23.—At the banquet of the corn and flour exchange last night Mr. John W. Garrett made a speech, in the course of which he said: "A remarkable combination occurred recently of all the cable interests between Europe and the United States, by which charges were greatly increased, and under which cables, although sent by the English and French lines, were subjected to the supervision of the Western Union company. An application was made, on behalf of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad company, to the manager of the Direct United States cable company to ascertain whether the Baltimore and Ohio company could forward cablegrams to France by that company without going through the hands of the Western Union company. The response was that this could only be done with the understanding that should these cablegrams contain anything affecting the Western Union company in any way it would be the privilege of that company to inspect them, and that all cablegrams received from the other side are sent direct to the Western Union main office and from there distributed. It was therefore determined to construct a cable for the transmission of messages in connection with the Baltimore and Ohio land system. The money requisite for the prompt construction of a cable between the United States and Europe, with all the latest improvements and of the most reliable character, has been subscribed, and this cable will be promptly built in the best manner and at the lowest cost."

A Miracle.

WASHINGTON, Pa., November 23.—Less than two weeks have passed since the miraculous faith cure of Richard Huffman, of Bentleyville, a cripple. Another case in this country is now to be recorded. Miss Emma Rodgers, an estimable young lady, 22 years of age, who resides on a farm a few miles from town, has been for two years afflicted in a like manner with a spinal affection. During that time she has been unable to leave her bed, not even able to raise her head from the pillow. A year ago she was taken to Philadelphia before the best physicians of that city, but without obtaining any relief whatever. Richard Huffman has been acquainted with the family, and several weeks ago said to Miss Rodgers that he was certain that through the power of prayer God would yet restore them both to health and strength. The result in Hoffman's case is already known. Miss Rodgers is very devout and for some time has been praying for her relief and others have prayed for her. Thursday she got up from bed and when her father came home from work he found his daughter sitting in a chair, apparently fully recovered. Dr. Dodd, her physician, is as much astonished in her case as was the doctor who had made a careful examination of Mr. Huffman and pronounced him incurable. This, the second case of faith cure in the county within ten days, has caused much comment.

A Boarding House Burned.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 24.—Shortly after 2 o'clock this morning a fire broke out in the boarding house of Mrs. Ralph Lord, on South Tennessee street. The rear portion of the building was destroyed. Two servant girls, named Katie Daily and Elle Keenan, sleeping in an upper room, were burned to death. It is supposed they were suffocated by smoke and unable to find their way out. The loss on the building is about $5,000.

Stabbed his father.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., November 26.—Late last night William Donavan, aged 21, a fireman on the Erie road, stabbed his father with a carving knife while the latter was interfering to stop a quarrel between William and a younger brother. The wound is regarded as fatal.

Cheaper Postage.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The postmaster general yesterday took a step which, it is believed in some quarters, will materially affect the future operations and reforms of the department. This was in the conclusion of a contract with Mr. Leo Ehrlich, of St. Louis, for the use of his recent ingenious invention of combination letter-sheet and envelope. The contract was signed yesterday. By the middle of January the Ehrlich invention will be on sale at the principal postoffices in the country in the shape of a letter-sheet and envelope and stamp all for three cents, and a circular letter and envelope and stamp for one cent added to cost of the paper. The unstamped article will find its way into the public market through the stationery world. This is a return to the simplicity of correspondence as it was before envelopes were invented, without returning to the disadvantages of sealing wax tapers and wafers.

The contract with the inventor provides that the stamped article shall be manufactured under the supervision of the government stamped envelope agents at Hartford or New York, that the government is to take no risk of the public demand and receive no profit from such demand beyond the convenience and advantage in handling. Those that are to be put on sale at the stamp windows will be of the denomination of three, two and one cent, the latter or circular form being minus the end flap or open. This patent letter-sheet will be sold at a price ranging from $2 to $4 per thousand according to the quality of paper used. The contractor retains his rights as patentee, the government merely acting as his agent and making returns of sales to him every ninety days for the use of the scheme.

Warring Elements.

BUFFALO, N. Y., November 24.—Early this morning a very severe storm broke over the city for half an hour. The gale was accompanied by thunder and lightning. Trees were blown down, signs unhinged and windows blown in. The schooner J. W. Doane, from Erie, was forced ashore at the breakwater and is a total wreck. Loss, $30,000. It was owned by W. M. Egan, of Chicago. The schooner Graton and A. H. Moss are also ashore, the former at Pand Cut and the latter at the foot of George street. The crews were saved. The steam barge Empire arrived safely, having broken away from her tow.

This morning the floating elevator, the American Giant, situated in the Blackwell canal, was blown down. The tower was first to go, and the hull soon after sank No lives were lost. Loss, $15,000.

DETROIT, November 24.—The captain of the propeller Fountain City, which arrived at midnight, thinks the loss to shipping by the last night's gale will be very heavy. He says there are many crafts of every description out on Lake Huron, and that the storm on Saginaw bay is simply terrible. The schooner C. B. Benson is reported aground on Colchester reef, Lake Erie, yesterday afternoon, flying signals of distress. The crew were lassoed to the rigging. The vessel that sighted them was unable to get to them.

Probable Murder in Jersey.

NEWTON, November 23.—John J. Bryant, a hotel keeper at Ogdensburg, Sussex county, was stabbed yesterday morning by a notorious character of that place, named James Ackerson, who came to the hotel on Thursday evening intoxicated and noisy. To avoid trouble Mr. Bryant induced him to go to bed. Near daylight the next morning Ackerson became turbulent and Mr. Bryant and some friends went to his room. Their entrance was resisted by Ackerson, who when the door was forced, stabbed Bryant in the side with a pocket knife, the blade penetrating the left lung, the blood spattering the room. Ackerson was arrested and is now in the Newton jail. He is an unmarried man, about 63 years old, and is known by his neighbors as "Bog Meadow Jim," from the fact that for many years he has lived in a hut at the edge of the Sparta bog meadows.

Systematic Mail Robbery.

DENVER, Col., Nov. 23.—There is no doubt that the mails between Denver and eastern cities, particularly New York, Cleveland and Buffalo, are being systematically and successfully robbed. The New York and eastern mail which left Denver on December 20, 1881, never reached its destination and since that time losses are almost constantly being reported. The real losses in valuables and currency can hardly be estimated, but the losses in drafts, bills of exchange and postal money orders will aggregate six hundred thousand dollars. Of course these last are not real losses, but Denver banks and business houses have been forced to make their transfers of money through express companies, much to their cost and inconvenience.

Accident.

ASHLAND, Pa., Nov. 24.—An engineer named Lewis, employed at the Keystone colliery, while working at the head of the slope lost his footing and fell to the bottom. His injuries are fatal.

Thirty Persons Drowned.

LIVERPOOL, November 23.—The steamer Windon, with grain from the Black Sea, foundered off the Island Usharl, coast of France. Thirty persons were drowned,

A Detective Bounced.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 22.—Detective Miller was to-day dismissed from his position on the detective force by the district commissioners.

Scalded by Steam.

WILMINGTON, Del., November 26.—About noon yesterday a four-inch heating pipe on board the fish commission steamer Albatross, lying at the Pusey & Jones company's wharf, exploded and severely scalded William P. Hawkins and George C. Patterson, joiners in the employ of the Pusey & Jones company, and James Willits, a tinner, employed by Flinn & Jackson. The unfortunate men were working in the laboratory of the new vessel when steam was gotten up in her boilers for the first time to test her machinery. The heated pipes were filled with steam to see if they worked properly. The four-inch heating pipe running through the laboratory was filled with steam, and after withstanding the pressure for a short time it separated at a brass joint, which had expanded by being heated. The steam poured into the laboratory where the men were working, filling it completely in an instant and making the air stifling hot. The men fought their way through the dense volume of hot steam, gained the door and got into another apartment. Their heads, faces, necks and hands presented a horrible spectacle. Wm. Hawkins, it is supposed, received fatal injuries. All the men are badly scalded and are suffering greatly from the effects of their burns.

A Dublin Detective Murdered.

DUBLIN, November 26.—A detective named Cox was shot and killed by a man with a revolver at 11:30 o'clock to-night, in Middle Abbey street, this city. Another detective named Eastwood shot Cox's assailant. Eastwood and Cox and another detective were together on special duty in the neighborhood of Sackville street, watching a party of men who were suspected of being Fenians. Four shots were fired at the officers, one of them wounding Cox. Eastwood pursued the man who fired the revolver and shot him in the head, arm and hand. The man is not expected to recover. He was among a group of ten men, one of whom, who sought to hurry the murderer away, was captured by a soldier of the rifle brigade, who drew his bayonet and threatened to run him through if he did not surrender. Cox was thirty years old and the assassin, whose name is Christopher Dowling, is of about the same age. A third man of the party is also in custody.

Officials Removed.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—The president this evening directed the removal of Charles E. Henry, marshal of the District of Columbia; D. B. Ainger, postmaster, and Myron M. Parker, assistant postmaster, for the city of Washington; M. D. Helm, foreman of the Congressional Record, and George E. Spencer, government director of the Union Pacific railroad company, upon charges made by the attorney general and Colonel Bliss with having interfered with ends of justice in connection with the star route trials. These offices will all be filled immediately, so that there may be no interruption to the public service. To prevent any possible embarrassment in the affairs of the Marshal's office the suspension of that officer will be withheld until his successor is appointed.

Thurlow Weed's Funeral.

NEW YORK, November 24.—The funeral of Thurlow Weed took place this morning. Private services were held at his late residence, Rev. Drs. Hall, Paxton and Keenschell officiating. At the conclusion of the services the funeral cortege was formed and proceeded to the church, which was filled with a congregation composed of many prominent citizens and well-known persons from the interior of the state. Miss Harriet Weed was too greatly agitated to leave the house. Following the pall-bearers and mourners were the attaches of the household and the friends of the family. The funeral party will leave for Albany this evening.

He Didn't Know.

PHILADELPHIA, November 23.—In regard to the statement published to-day that an iron and steel manufacturer from Pittsburgh had declared that steel rails can be made in that city at a cost of $32 per ton, James M. Swank, secretary of the American iron and steel association, to-day in reply to an inquiry received a telegram from Thomas M. Carnegie, of the steel manufacturing firm of Carnegie Brothers & Co., Pittsburgh, in which Mr. Carnegie says that the statement was not made by any one in the business or familiar with it.

Melius Found not Guilty.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—In the case of George Melius, the brakeman of the express train whiih was run into in January last at Spuyten Duyvel, the jury to-day returned a verdict of not guilty. He was on trial on an indictment of manslaughter in the fourth degree based upon the charge that through neglect of duty he had been instrumental in the death of Senator Wagner and others.

Blew out the Gas.

WILLIAMSPORT, Nov. 23.—William Devereux, a young man under the influence of liquor, went to bed Tuesday night at the City hotel after blowing out the gas. Early yesterday morning the porter discovered the flow of gas and on effecting an entrance in the room found Devereux in a partly unconscious condition. A prompt application of restoratives saved him.

AN ERRONEOUS BELIEF.

HOW A MISTAKEN THEORY NEARLY COST A WELL-KNOWN MINISTER HIT LIFE.

Chicago Standard.

The following remarkable statement, made by a well-known Baptist clergyman, besides the unusual matter of value it contains, will be found most readable and interesting:

MESSRS EDITORS: I have always believed most firmly in the brotherhood of men, and that every human being is in duty bound to assist his fellow man to the fullest extent of his power. The relation, therefore of my personal experience will, I trust, prove of benefit to many thousands in this land.

My earlier years were full of health and pleasure. After the completion of my educational studies I undertook the profession of teaching, and under the severe strain to which I was subjected I gradually became reduced so that the least exposure or excitement would bring on sick headache, biliousness and general prostration. I gave up teaching and began to prepare for the ministry, and although I studied hard my health seemed to grow no worse. Finally I commenced preaching, and then my old physical troubles returned. The slightest amount of certain kinds of food distressed me and brought on heavy dullness, dizziness and often great depression of mind. A change of room, atmosphere or clothing was almost certain to cause a cold, accompanied by most painful suffering. I attributed all this to the severe work I was obliged to do in the ministry, and so did not attempt to remove it. I next began to grow nervous and noticed that my feet were cold, while my left side and back frequently pained me. I felt a drowsy or sleepy sensation after eating, while a little excitement caused me to lose my appetite entirely. At times my spirits would be light and I would feel as if I might live to a good old age, when possibly in less time than an hour my head would reel, my body ache and I would be overcome with a deathly sickness. After such an attack a cold sweat would break out upon me and this would be followed by complete prostration. It would be impossible to describe the suffering I endured at these times, and yet I attributed it all to overwork and not to any special trouble or disease.

It was more than a year from the time the attacks first began that I consulted a physician. He examined me and declared that my lungs were affected and that I was on the road to consumption. I derided this idea and so called upon another doctor. But he told me the same thing, as did also the other medical men whom I consulted. Indeed, they all informed me that unless I went to Colorado, Dakota or the sea coast there was little hope. However, I did not change climate, but tried to continue my work as best I could. A year ago last May and in the November and December following I had three severe attacks of what the doctors said was lung fever or pneumonia. I recovered from these by the most faithful nursing, but I felt all the time as I know now that my troubles did not originate in my lungs, but in some other organs of the body. It is true, I felt severe pains in my lungs and I expectorated a great deal. I was extremely sensitive to cold, and the least draft or change of apparel tended to bring on a cold. My breathing was often most difficult and it frequently seemed that with all my exertions I could not get enough air into my lungs to satisfy them or keep my blood pure. As I am large in stature, weighing over 200 pounds, and being in the prime of my usefulness, you can imagine how I shrunk from the inevitable fate which seemed to stare me in the face.

One Sunday evening last February, upon coming down from my pulpit almost prostrated and feeling that possibly it would be the last time I should ever enter it again, a member of my church approached me and said: "Brother Humphrey, I know just what you need to restore you to health. I have been troubled just as you are and I am perfectly well now." I thanked him for his suggestions, but shook my head sadly, for I felt that there was little hope for me. However, after I returned home I began to reflect upon the subject, and finally sent my son to procure some of the medicine which had been so highly recommended. If faith were an element necessary to the success of a medicine, it certainly was lacking in this case, for I was really hopeless. Greatly to my surprise, however, I began to feel much better, and the following Sunday I was able to preach with comparative ease. I continued to grow better as I continued to use the medicine, for it seemed to reach my entire system. I was able to preach, sing and work without exhaustion, and to-day I am a well man, sleep soundly, eat heartily, feel no lung troubles, and I believe I owe my life and health wholly to Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, which I consider a benefaction to suffering humanity.

It is only natural that since my recovery I should feel enthusiastic over the remedy which had restored me and also observe its effects upon others. As a result, I am forced to the conclusion that very much sickness which is supposed to originate in the lungs, arises wholly from disordered kidneys and liver. I believe thousands of people are suffering to-day and looking forward, as I was, to a consumptive's grave, when their lungs are wholly sound and they might be restored to perfect health by the same means that I employed. Believing these truths and realizing their importance to the world, I come out thus openly, and say that I believe, under God, this remedy is a public benefaction, and that I would most cordially and earnestly commend it to the world as a blessing to humanity.

(REV.) B. F. HUMPHREY,
Pastor Baptist church.

Recovered.

The postal card description of the mare, which was offered for sale under suspicious circumstances by a man in Elmira on Saturday, the 18th, accorded so perfectly with the description of the animal stolen from Mr. Herman Miller, of Pleasant Gap, that the latter gentleman telegraphed to Mr. John S. Knapp, chief of police of Elmira, asking if the mare in his possession had a scar under her left eye. Being answered in the affirmative and also receiving the assurance that the animal was doubtless the one for which he was seeking, he departed for Elmira on Wednesday evening to claim his property and also to pay over the $150 which he offered for her recovery. He will doubtless obtain from the prisoner information which will lead to the recovery of the buggy and harness which were stolen at the same time and disposed of before reaching Elmira.

P. S.—From a circumstance which occurred on Wednesday it is possible that there is a mistake in the above, as Chief of Police Westbrook, of Lock Haven, telegraphed to this place that morning saying that Mr. Miller's mare had been found in that city.

—The Garfield memorial fair is now in progress in Washington City. There has never been a fair of such magnificent proportions, and it is asserted that the expenses of the show will be in the neighborhood of $12,000. The Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio railroad companies have advertised it extensively along their lines of railroad, and rates have been reduced to a very low figure. There is a superb display, including works of art, educational and instructive displays, furniture and accessories, textile fabrics, clothing, mining industries, raw and manufactured products, mechanical apparatus, etc. As much interest is exhibited in its success as in the large amount of groceries sold at the store of Sechler & Co. But the resident of this county, of course, gives the latter scheme his preference because it is nearest his heart. It is to his interest that good groceries should be sold at reasonable rates and that is what is done at Sechler's store It will require but little trouble for all who visit Bellefonte to call at Sechler's store and attest the truth of what we say.

—The Pennsylvania railroad Company will sell excursion tickets from all stations on main lines and branches to-day, November 29 and Thursday, November 30, good to return until December 1, 1882, inclusive. This is a new excursion never given before. Thanksgiving day is growing in popularity, and partakes much of the nature of Christmas and New Year holidays and the 4th of July. Friends residing at a distance will, by this arrangement, have an opportunity of eating their Thanksgiving turkey at the same table, without the ordinary traveling expenses to mar their appetite.

—The store of Harry Teats & Co. has already gained a reputation for fair dealing.

—On Saturday death took from the journalistic field one of its most brilliant members in this section. We refer to the death of Mr Al. Tyhurst, editor and proprietor of the Huntingdon Globe. He had been ill almost a year, suffering from pulmonary affection. It was his intention to spend the winter in Florida, but death claimed him ere he had time to take that measure of relief.

—Go to Harry Teats & Co.'s store for the best sugars, coffees, teas, syrups and spices.

—The following receipt for diphtheria is from an English doctor, who never lost a case when giving this treatment:

"One teaspoonful of sulpher in a wineglassful of water. Stir with a stick, not with metal. Use as a gargle, allowing some to pass down the throat. When not possible to use as a gargle, blow a little powdered sulphur through a quill into the throat. This gives instant relief."

—Visit Sechler's grocery store and make your choice from his large and complete stock.

—The Pennsylvania railroad company on Thursday gave an order to the Grant locomotive works, at Patterson, N. J., for forty new locomotives and for fifteen more to the Pittsburg locomotive company. This looks as though the business of that railroad company had either increased immensely, or was likely to do so shortly.

—Your Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners will be palatable if the groceries are purchased of Harry Teats & Co.

Railroad War.

A train of two passenger coaches filled with railroad men pulled rapidly into this place Wednesday, the 22d, and after a delay of not longer than five minutes, as rapidly pulled out again. Their errand to this place was to add Sheriff Dunkle to the list of passengers and with him on board the train made all speed to Snow Shoe. There a battle of the giants took place, the conflicting parties being the Pennsylania Railroad and the Pennsylvania and Western, the new corporation now puttting down rails at a point near Snow Shoe. The latter company had reached the point on Isaac Lucas' farm where the rails of the Pennsylvania must be crossed in order to make further progress. The Pennsylvania and Western consented to wait ten days until the Pennsylvania company shall have an opportunity to have a bill of injunction issued. We shall await further developments with interest.

—The Altoona Tribune of Thursday says that a very distinguished party of state officials, including the members of the building commission of the state reformatory now in process of erection at Huntingdon, arrived in the city on fast line Wednesday, and only came to the city to enjoy first class hotel accommodations. The Logan house register showed the following names: Hon. Henry Hoyt, governor of Pennsylvania, and Hon. W. C. Howell, John Paul, Thomas B. Kennedy, T. D. Evans, W. B. Hart and Henry Shenk. The party will inspect the work as it progresses on the state reformatory at Huntingdon. A thorough investigation of all work that has been completed will be made with a view to pushing the work as far as possible during the coming month. The school building is under way, and the entire structure will be completed as far as the weather will permit.

—A dramatic treat is in store for the theatre-going people of Bellefonte this week in the production of that thrilling military drama, "The German Volunteer," the first performance of which takes place this (Wednesday) evening, November 29th, at the Opera House. This play is brought out under the auspices of Gregg Post of this place, for the benefit of Relief Fund of that order, a worthy object, and well deserving the support of our citizens. Will D. Sapbar, the Dutch comedian, will take a prominent part in the play, and none should fail to see him, as he is unquestionably one of the grandest actors on the American stage. For further particulars see advertisement in another column.

—The grand encampment of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows on the 21st held its semi-annual session at Odd Fellow hall, in Philadelphia. The following candidates were nominated for election at the annual meeting, which assembles at Harrisburg in March next: Grand patriarch, Joseph E. McCabe; grand high priest, Henry W. Bailey; grand senior warden, Alfred Facenthall, Doylestown; grand scribe, James B. Nicholson; grand treasurer, John S. Heiss; grand junior warden, William A. Wetherill and Dr. S. Hastings Brown; grand representatives, Francis M. Ray and M. Richards Muckle. James W. Tindall was chosen as the representative to the Odd Fellow hall association.

—There are several persons who think they saw the men who committed the safe burglaries on Tuesday night of last week. One man says he saw three suspicious looking characters walking on the railroad toward Milesburg on Wednesday morning. Two of them had umbrella fixtures under their arms and the third carried a large, heavy box. As they made no attempt to get work the individual who saw them is confident they are the burglars.

—Mr. Joseph Hall, of Moshannon, while crossing the mountains on Wednesday afoot, on his way to Bellefonte, came suddenly upon two deer, and succeeded in shooting both of them. He strung them up on a tree to await his return. Mountain tourists do not often meet with such good fortune.

—The secretaries of the different school boards of Centre county are requested to send their names and address to Mr. J. C. Meyer, of Bellefonte, to enable him to correspond with them in relation to the next session of the county institute.

—We acknowledge the receipt from W. E. Tyson, of Gettysburg College, of the most ludicrous illustrated programme of the trip up Salt River which has yet come to our observation. It was issued by the Star and Sentinel, of that place.

—There will be a meeting of Centre county Pomona Grange at Centre Hall, on Tuesday and Wednesday, November 28 and 29.

News from the Neighborhood.

The following brief items are clipped from the Altoona Tribune of Wednesday morning, the 22d :

Williamsport has a brand new ghost.

Western beef is on sale in Williamsport.

Perry county corn is moulding in the cribs.

Andrew Clouser, of New Bloomfield, has lost two children from diphtheria within a week.

Williamsport drunkards complain that the gas furnished that town is so poor that they can't find the lamp posts at night.

A break in the Juniata canal, near Newport, caused several days' delay in navigation last week, much to the annoyance of canalmen.

Rev. Joseph Wagner, of Stoystown, Somerset county, has accepted a call to the pastorate of St. John's Reformed church, Williamsport, and will assume the duties of the position in January next.

Pennell Eldridge, who resides in Morrellville, one of Johnstown's suburbs, while doing some repairing at the steel works on Saturday night, fell a distance of twenty two feet, alighting on a pile of cinder, sustaining serious injuries about the head and body.

Three children—Thomas Loeman, now thirteen years old; Minnie, now twelve, and James ten—living in Boston have just fallen heir to $4,000,000 left to them by an uncle who resides in Australia. He did not die and leave it to them; but, hearing that they were living in poverty in Massachusetts' metropolis, he made them his heirs. They will be sent to school in that country until they are thoroughly educated, after which they will have all the advantages that $4,000,000 can bestow to aid them in getting on in the world. You may be sure that these three children are greatly rejoiced. It is as good news to them as is the information we are now about to impart to our readers, viz.: that at Sechler's grocery store in the Bush House block the finest groceries in Centre county can be obtained. The proprietor is an old and experienced grocer, and thoroughly comprehends the needs of this community. Give him a call before you purchase elsewhere and you will be more than satisfied.

A Creditable Report.

We have not the figures at hand to make a complete report of the school at Pine Glen, taught by Mr. R F. Fetterolf, but sufficient to show that it is in an exceedingly prosperous condition. During the month just expired the attendance was 44, of which number 14 were present at every session. We give the names of twelve who were regular in their attendance as follows: Emma Bates, Clemmie Bates, Maggie Bates, Jennie Bates, Bessie Midlam, Emma Midlam, Nancy Mulhollan, Clara Mulhollan, Willie Hipple, Harry Hipple, Frank Loy and Willie Loy. We do not remember the names of the two other meritorious scholars. The per cent. of attendance was 90.

A $20.00 Biblical Reward.

The publishers of Rutledge's Monthly offer twelve valuable rewards in their Monthly for December, among which is the following:

We will give $20.00 in gold to the person telling us how many verses there are in the New Testament Scriptures (not the New Revision) by December 10th, 1882. Should two or more correct answers be received the reward will be divided. The money will be forwarded to the winner December 15th, 1881. Persons trying for the reward must send 20 cents in silver (no postage stamps taken) with their answers, for which they will receive the Christmas Monthly, in which the name and address of the winner of the reward and the correct answer will be published. This may be worth $20.00 to you. Cut it out. Address RUTLEDGE PUBLISHING COMPANY, Easton, Pa.

Take Notice!

It is very important to be prepared for cold weather, to have your winter clothing at hand, your overcoat ready to put on at a moment's warning, your house full of coal, and your furnace ready to light. In this matter, to be forewarned is to be forearmed. What does every event of life teach, but to be always ready for cold weather? What a calamity to be frozen to death! Who was ever frozen and then thawed out that survived the process? Cold is dangerous even in moderately cold weather. People have been frost bitten, or "caught cold" and had a fearful disturbance with their circulatory functions. Be warned in time! Make haste! Stand not upon the order of your going, but go at once to the Boston Clothing House, just opened, in Reynolds' Block, opposite Brockerhoff House, Bellefonte, Pa., and get supplied with warm winter clothing, boots, shoes, hats and caps.

THE LATEST NEWS.

The Official Vote.

HARRISBURG, November 20—The total vote for governor at the recent election as received at the state department, the computation of which was completed to-day, is as follows; Pattison, 355 791; Beaver, 315 589; Stewart, 43 743; Armstrong, 25 484; Pettitt, 5 196; the to al vote, 743 803. Pattison's plurality, 40,202. This is the largest vote ever polled in the state with the exceptio of the presidential contests of 1876 and 1880.

The officia count of the vote for the balance of the state ticket was completed this evening and is as follows:

Lieutenant overnor—Davies, 317,614; Black, 353 642; Duff, 43,577; Williams, 4,662; Howard, 19,475; scattering, 4,103. Black's plurality, 36 028.

Secretary of internal affairs—Greer, 317,408; Africa, 353,752; Merrick, 43,096; Dewoody, 19 941; Crossman, 5,497; scattering, 3 785. Africa's plurality, 46 244.

Judge of the supreme court—Rawle, 315 163; Clark, 355 935; Junkin, 41 990; Cake, 19 285; Cassel, 4 457; scattering, 2,108. Clark's plurality, 40 772.

Congress at large—Brosius, 323,255; Elliott, 351,043; McMichael, 40,995; Tomlinson, 20,995; Pierce, 4,643; scattering, 491. Elliott's plurality 27,788.

The returns for congressmen have not yet been received.

The Supreme Court.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 20.—The supreme court to-day rendered a decision in favor of the Standard oil company, thus ending the long line of litigation that has ensued between the commonwealth and that company concerning taxes and penalties claimed to be due the state by the latter. Justices Gordon, Trunkey and Sterrett dissented.

The supreme court to-day refused to interfere with the death sentence of Silas F. Gray for the murder of Mrs. McCreary. Sentence was imposed by the Westmoreland county court.

It granted a new trial to young Abernethy, of Pittsburg, who on the evening of December 5, 1881, shot and killed a man named Kane in a bar room in that city. He was convicted of murder in the first degree and sentenced to be hanged.

Seriously Ill.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—Two physicians, whose names became familiar to the public during the illness of President Garfield, are seriously and probably fatally ill. Surgeon General Barnes has been very low and his life was despaired of from day to day a month ago. He has rallied a little since, but his friends are not much encouraged by his condition. His trouble is pronounced Bright's disease of the kidneys. Another of the Garfield physicians, Dr. Woodward, is rapidly failing from softening of the brain. He has returned from Italy, where he spent the past summer, without signs of improvement, but on the contrary has grown worse. Little hope is expressed that he may recuperate and it is feared that the worst may be looked for at any time.

A Burning Colliery.

HARRISBURG, November 20.—Fire broke out last night in the Short Mountain colliery at Lykens, in this county. The flames commenced at one of the fans and are still burning fiercely. There was no loss of life.

The fire in the Short Mountain colliery is due to negligence of a watchman. Several men narrowly escaped suffocation. One hundred and fifty mules in the mine were saved. All efforts to check the flames have failed and fire broke out eighty yards further down the slope. One thousand five hundred men and boys are thrown out of employment.

James W. Simonton's Funeral.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The funeral services over the remains of the late James W. Simonton were held to-day at the Church of the Messiah. They were attended by many prominent literary men and the members of the associated press, of which he was for many years the general agent. The Rev. Dr. Robert Collier officiated and made an address on the virtues of the deceased. The remains were then taken to Woodlawn cemetery for interment. At the latter place Masonic services were conducted by the master of Kane lodge, No. 454, Free and Accepted Masons, of which Mr. Simonton was an esteemed member.

A President's Opinion.

ST. LOUIS, Mo, Nov. 20.—President Hitchcock, of the Vulcan steel and ore works, speaking of the decline of 25 per cent. in steel rails says: "There is no disposition to make a corresponding decline in pig iron, and that if by December 1 they cannot get a reduction in the price of labor and material they will close their mills, throwing out of employment three thousand hands with a pay roll of $150,000 per month.

An Accident Caused by a Cow.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Nov. 20.—A railroad accident at Indian Pond on Saturday evening was caused by a cow on the track. A car containing a large number of laborers was thrown off the track and three men—John Roche, Frank Barron and Matthew Mercer—were killed. John Rain, William O'Brien, William Medley and John Grant were seriously wounded. Several others were slightly injured.

Internal Revenue Taxation.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—W. D. Kelley, chairman of the committee on ways and means, expresses himself on all occasions in favor of abolishing all internal revenue taxes. A prominent member of the committee from the West said to-day to an Associated Press reporter that while it would be impossible to anticipate the action of the committee it might safely be said that there is a feeling among some of its members in favor of reducing the taxes as much as may be done, having due regard to the necessity of the government for current expenses, for the sinking fund and for the interest on the public debt. Whether or not this reduction of internal taxes to the lowest possible figure compatable with these necessities would make tobacco free and leave the taxes on whisky alone, or take it off whisky as well, making a clean sweep as desired by Kelley, he could not say. He recalled the revenue bill of the last session which passed the house and which contemplated a reduction in the revenues of $23,000,000. This took the tax off everything but tobacco and whisky, and it is now generally admitted that a greater reduction than $23,000,000 is demanded by considerations of the public welfare and may safely be made. The members of the committee now present are all pronounced protectionists and the gentleman interrogated was careful to confine himself to the general question of agreement on such reduction as the condition of the treasury can stand. It is a fair conclusion, from his remarks, that the committee will favor the entire removal of taxes from everything except tobacco and whisky, and the reduction of taxes on those articles.

A Fire Causes a Panic.

PROVIDENCE R. I., November 21—A fire at 10 o'clock this morning in the Calendar building on Sabin street, caused a panic among the girls working there. Several of them jumped from the windows, some it is reported with fatal effect. The fire was caused by the ignition of a can of naptha on the third floor, and the flames spread so quickly that escape by the stairway was entirely barred. On the fourth floor in Robinson's gold chain factory about forty operators were at work, among them about twenty girls. A fearful panic ensued and in their rush for the windows many were forced out before they had prepared to jump to a roof two stories below. Emma Gassett and Bessie Cobb fell to the street and were instantly killed. Mary McSarley fell on a picket fence and was so terribly injured that she cannot live. Several other girls and six or eight men were badly injured, some of them, it is thought fatally. Some were carried to their homes and others taken to the hospital in an ambulance. The financial loss is about $50,000, divided among several firms.

The Pardon Mill.

HARRISBURG, November 21.—Application was made to the board of pardons to-day for a pardon for David Mouat, a well known politician of Philadelphia, under sentence of two years for altering election returns. The board held the matter under advisment. The applications for pardons in the cases of Charles C. Hames and Henry G. Clement, of Philadelphia, highway conspirators, were refused. The following were pardoned: York Westly Usey, Adams county; Barney O'Neil, voluntary manslaughter, Fayette county; George Arthur, assault and battery and aggravated assault with intent to kill, Philadelphia. Pardons were refused in the cases of Frank Van Leer, bigamy, Philadelphia; Abe Rosingroint, larceny, Wyoming county; John Kirk, larceny, Allegheny county; Michael O'Brien, conspiracy, Schuylkill county; Christopher Donnely, assault and battery with intent to kill, Schuylkill county; Fredrick Staeb, burglary, Cambria county.

Killed by a Burglar.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 21.—About 1 o'clock this morning William A. Russell, of the firm of Russell Brothers, at Reisterstown, Baltimore county, was shot and killed by a burglar. The store had been broken open by two burglars and Mr. Russell and his clerk, who were stopping in the building, went down stairs, when one of the burglars fired the shot that struck Mr. Russell in the forehead, killing him instantly. The murderers then ran off and are still at large.

A Singular Case.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—In the court of general sessions to-day Jessie Maillard, the young woman who is charged with endeavoring to palm off another woman's child as her own, and Joseph Levoys, a young Hebrew merchant, were placed on trial under an indictment for perjury. Dr. Charles S. Allen testified that he attended the girl and the child of which he delivered her afterward died. A change of children might have been made without his knowledge. The case will last a couple of days.

Decapitated by a Train.

CONNELLSVILLE, Nov. 20.—Owen McPartland, a lad 18 years of age, was run over and cut to pieces by a freight train on the Southwest railroad on Saturday night, while wandering home in an intoxicated condition. The remains were horribly mangled, the head being severed from the body and the track strewn for fifty yards with blood and fragments of flesh.

A Railroad Wreck.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, November 22.—The St. Louis limited express east, leaving at 12.05 this morning, on the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and St. Louis railroad, was wrecked near Union station, twenty-six miles east of this city, by a rail which had been placed across the track. The accident happened shortly after 10 o'clock. The engine was hurled down an embankment over thirty feet, turning over twice, landing in a field. The engineer and fireman escaped slightly bruised. Three cars, consisting of two postal, a baggage and passenger car, were thrown to the bottom of the hill in a confused wreck, but no person was fatally injured. The people in the sleepers all escaped, some with bruises. The injured are T. Newhead, Newcomerstown, brakeman, bruised and cut about the head, and nose broken; Fred Burr, Columbus, mail agent, shoulder fractured, internal injuries; J. J. Walters, East Liverpool, rib broken, cut about the head; Stewart, mail agent, Urbana, hand cut. A large number received bruises and cuts. The damage to the cars is about $1,000.

Death of Thurlow Weed.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22—Thurlow Weed died this morning at 8.55 o'clock. He breathed his last surrounded by his children, grandchildren, physicians and attaches of his household. Just before the moment of dissolution he reached with his right hand around the bed as though he sought his children's hands. His granddaughter took the extended hand. She felt a soft pressure, and the next moment Mr. Weed was dead.

The arrangements for the funeral were completed this afternoon. It will take place from his late residence, No. 12 West Twelfth street, on Friday morning at 10 a. m., and will be very private, according to the wish often expressed by Mr. Weed. He was born at Cairo, Greene county, New York, November 15, 1797.

Lost in a Storm.

QUEBEC, Nov. 22. News has reached here of the total loss of the steamer Wearmouth, of London, Captain Evans, which cleared at this port on the 17th instant with a cargo of deals. She went ashore on North Sand beach, Magdalene island, one mile east of Wolf island telegraph station, at 12.30 o'clock Sunday night during a terrific easterly gale and snow storm. The crew hung by her until 11 o'clock Monday, when she broke in four pieces. Only four of the twenty men were saved, the rest being lost in the attempt to reach land. The four persons saved are Chief Engineer Hutchinson and Seamen McLachland, Townsend and Martin.

Mysterious Disappearance.

GREENSBURG, Pa., November 22.—There is great excitement here over the mysterious disappearance yesterday of little Jennie Kelly, who resided with her grandmother, about two miles from this town. Her mother was married to John Kelly, an eastern tramp, that came here about fifteen years ago. The marriage was an unhappy one, and this child was the only issue. The country has been searched, but there is no clue to the missing child. She left the house or was taken away while she was baking and while the other inmates were in the store. She was a very eccentric young woman.

A Frozen Hunter.

BRADFORD, Nov. 22—Augustus Martin, an old operator and contractor, left Gaffy station, on the Kinzua creek, ten miles south of here, on Friday morning on a hunting expedition. Nothing more was heard of him till Sunday evening, when he was found by a party from the station, with his hands and feet frozen, and in a partially demented condition. As near as can be learned, he fell off a log crossing the creek into the freezing water. He wandered around the woods two days, unable to make a fire and with nothing to eat. He is now with friends and every effort is being made to save his life.

A Partial Strike Only.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 20.—The strike of the railroad coal miners to-day was not as successful as they had expected. Out of fifty-nine pits, employing over 8,000 men, only fourteen pits, or about 1,500 miners, are idle. The rest are still at work. The miners assert that all will be out in a few days, but the indications are not such as to encourage this belief.

Thurlow Weed Still Sinking.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Thurlow Weed was still unconscious at a late hour to-night. The members of his family remained around his bedside watching his life slowly ebbing away. The consulting physicians have given up all hope of prolonging his life.

Influence of the Soil on Health.

The influence of the soil upon the health of those living upon it is brought out very plainly during the prevalence of epidemic diseases. That malarial diseases (like intermittent fevers) originate from the soil is already accepted; and recent investigations show pretty conclusively that the germs of cholera, abdominal typhus, yellow fever and the plague are in some way connected with the soil, which is daily corroborated by letters from all parts of the country, stating the marvellous effect Peruna has on those diseases, and in their convalescent state. John E Courtney, of Corry, Pa. Says: I am still getting better, thanks to your Peruna and Manalin. See page 24 in "Ills of Life."

A Dangerous Madman.

LONDON, November 20.—A man named Sanders was arraigned in the Bow street police court to-day for sending a letter to Gladstone, threatening to murder him. He was remanded after disclaiming any intention to murder the prime minister. He is certainly a dangerous madman. When searched at the station house a knife was found upon him.

Make yourself healthy and strong. Make life happy by using Brown's Iron Bitters.

Rum's Work.

SUNBURY, Pa., November 22.—John Kelly, an Irish laborer, fatally stabbed Michael Meehan during a drunken brawl here to-night. They were employed on the new railroad now being built here and were paid off to-night. Kelly escaped.

A Fatal Fall.

ALBANY, N. Y., November 21.—Thomas S McCabe, of Syracuse, a stone cutter, fell from the capitol building this morning and was killed. He attended a wake last night and it is supposed he was in liquor when he fell. He leaves a wife and one child.

Stab Each other to Death.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 22—At Denton's mill, Scott county, on Monday, John M. Walker and Albert Crutchfield, farmers, had a stabbing affray. Both were terribly cut. Walker died on Tuesday and Crutchfield, it is believed, is mortally wounded.

EASTERN AND WESTERN PROVERBS.—There is an Eastern proverb which says: "Only two creatures can surmount the pyramids: the eagle and the snail." There is a Western proverb that says: "Hunt's Remedy partakes of the nature of both eagle and snail. It is bold in its flight, like the eagle; it is persistent in its purpose, like the snail." And thus Hunt's Remedy easily surmounts the pyramid of kidney and liver disease. It even attacks Bright's Disease, and hesitates at no form of kidney disease however aggravated. The story of the cures which it has effected would make a large volume. Remember it is the one great liver and kidney medicine of the age.

Walnut Leaf Hair Restorer.

It is entirely different from all others. It is as clear as water, and, as its name indicates, is a perfect Vegetable Hair Restorer. It will immediately free the head from all dandruff, restore gray hair to its natural color, and produce a new growth where it has fallen off. It does not in any manner affect the health, which sulphur, sugar of lead, and nitrate of silver preparations have done. It will change light or faded hair in a few days to a beautiful glossy brown. Ask your druggists for it. Each bottle is warranted. Smith, Kline & Co., Wholesale Agents, Philadelphia, and Hall & Ruckel, New York. 14 34 1y

MANHOOD

How Lost, How Restored!

Just published, a new edition of DR. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the radical cure of SPERMATORRHŒA or Seminal weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses, IMPOTENCY, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc.; also, Consumption, Epilepsy and Fits, induced by Self-indulgence or sexual extravagance, &c.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self abuse may be radically cured; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

—Both the Lock Haven daily papers are laboring to solve the perplexing question: "What shall we do with our daughters?" Why, gentlemen, array them in sealskin sacques and tell them they are prettier than Mrs. Langtry, and if they don't beam on you such a pleasant smile as to make you feel like taffy candy we'll confess ourselves a false prophet.

Safe Burglaries.

Several attempts were made on Monday night of last week to break into the safes in the business offices in the large manufacturing establishments of this place, two of which were successful. The burglars, who were evidently professionals, first entered the office of P. B. Crider & Son. They attempted to bore the lock, but missed the tumbler and then put a heavy charge of powder around the outer edges of the door and blew it off. The report must have been very loud, but evidently nothing was heard of it as the burglary was not discovered until this morning. The heavy door of the safe was thrown about two feet from the safe on the floor, and the plate which covers the door was hurled several feet into an adjoining room. Five or six dollars in change were taken, but as that constituted the extent of the valuables in the safe at the time the booty was hardly sufficient to pay for the trouble. Everything about the office was covered with dust and dirt showing the force of the report. The woodwork near the safe was also blackened with powder.

The burglars then probably entered the office of Wm. P. Duncan & Co. The only thing they attempted to do at that place was to open the combination of the safe. Failing in that, they next gave their attention to the two safes in the Snow Shoe coal office. At the latter place they forced an entrance through a rear door. Drilling several holes in Mr. Rhoads' private safe, they succeeded in blowing out almost all of one side of it, rendering it entirely worthless. As it contained nothing but papers, their efforts here were fruitless. In another room is a large safe containing the valuables of the firm. They broke the hasp off of this and drilled quite a deep hole through the chilled iron of the door. But the dawn of morning evidently frightened them away before they succeeded in doing any further damage.

In view of the fact that the only result of the safe burglaries related above was to ruin two safes and damage two more, would it not be well for our business men to adopt the expedient resorted to by so many business men in all parts of the country of leaving the safes unlocked and putting a notice to that effect on the outside?

—The present board of commissioners are doing excellent work. We are informed that since they went into office the debt of the county has been reduced to the extent of $14,000, and that they are now about paying an additional $10,000 of debt, which will make a total of $24,000 paid off since they began their administration, decreasing debt now burdening the county to about $50 000. If the present efficient board of commissioners are continued in office another term they will be able to reduce the debt to such an extent that the succeeding board can wipe it out entirely. We understand that they contemplate many ways in which the expenses of the county may be decreased which it is inexpedient to enumerate at present.

The National Guard.

The report of Captain R. H. Hall, Tenth United States infantry, relative to the encampment of the National Guard of Pennsylvania in August last, at Lewistown, has been summitted to the adjutant general of the United States. Captain Hall was present during the entire encampment, and pronounces the inspection a very thorough one. He speaks in high terms of the discipline and instruction the men received when in camp. In the matter of clothing, Captain Hall notes the irregularity in shoes, which are not supplied by the State. In many instances foot covering was worn that would make a march of ten miles impossible. Underclothing, too, not fit for camp life and field service was worn. The rest of the uniform and equipments are of the kind provided for the regular army. On the question of individual work of the soldier Captain Hall does not speak so favorably. Defects were noticed in the set-up of the greater number of the men; in their unsteadiness in ranks; in the lack of prompt and proper rendition of military courtesies to superiors; in untidy equipments, and, too frequently, dirty and even rusty arms; in ignoring their duties on the part of guides; in irregularities in the performance of guard duty; and, in short, in many points which destinguish a well instructed soldier from a recruit.

—Only one case was tried in court on Tuesday of last week, the famous case of Centre county vs. John Spangler, ex-Sheriff. The attorneys for defendant took exception to the charge of Judge Watson before the jury left the box. A verdict was found against the defendant for $1,612.97.

Of Interest to Grangers.

The National Grange which met at Indianapolis, Ind., on Tuesday, the 21st, decided to hold its next session at Washington. Master Dorden, of Mississippi, reported from the committee on agriculture, a long document which caused a spirited and protracted discussion. The report recites the importance of agricultural labor in sustaining the concerns of life; claims that it is burdened by unjust exactions for transportation of the products of that labor; that grain gambling creates hurtful fluctuations, tending to make the rewards of labor uncertain, or even wholly lost, so far as profits are concerned; asks that this gambling be interdicted by law, and calls upon farmers to create a public sentiment that will eventuate in such laws. To accomplish this, wise political action and organization are held to be essential. In conclusion, the following resolutions were submitted and adopted:

Resolved, That in the exercise of the elective franchise we shall recognize allegiance to principle as the only safe rule of action.

Resolved, That we repudiate all leadership in politics, except that which tends to the advancement of the national interests of our people through the exercise of the virtues that dignify and enoble citizenship.

Resolved, That safe protection for our industries against organized extortion implies suitable, and in some degree, proportional representation in State and National legislatures.

A Mysterious Man Arrested.

Sheriff Dunkle has received the following card from the Chief of Police of Elmira, New York. It will explain itself:

ELMIRA, N. Y., Nov. 18, 1882.

Sheriff:—I have a man arrested about 40 years old, brown hair and mustache, about 5 feet 7 inches tall, thick set, weight about 165 pounds. Had in his possession a dark bay or brown mare, about 6 years old; weight about 1200 pounds. Star in forehead, quite crooked legs, hind feet up to fetterlock white. Mare was evidently stolen, as he offered her for one-half value. He had sold his buggy and was riding the mare. Please have this copied in your newspapers.

JOHN S. KNAPP, Chief of Police.

County papers please copy.

[From the description given above we are of opinion that the mare is the property of Mr. Hermon Miller, of Pleasant Gap.—ED.]

—We knew something terrible would happen if Pattison was elected and now the venerable town-clock on the Court House has stopped. Its hands ceased to make the usual journey over its face on Saturday night, the 18th instant, about eleven o'clock and on Sunday morning they were started on their travels again. Monday night they ceased to move at the solemn and mysterious hour of one o'clock and the next morning at 10 o'clock they still indicated that hour, making many innocent pedestrians who consulted it feel very hungry and much alarmed as they realized that their dinner hour had passed without their notice. It is said that there is some dispute between the borough authorities and the county officials as to which is in duty bound to repair this valuable time-piece, and we advise them to settle the matter by each contributing one-half the amount of the necessary expense. "Blessed are the peace-makers," &c.

—The Pennsylvania Railroad Company have placed on sale excursion tickets to Jacksonville, Florida, which give passengers fifteen days time in which to make the trip to the Florida summer lands, and the same number of days in which to return. Tickets are good to return until May 31st, 1883. Rate from Pittsburg for the round trip, $48.50. Only one change of cars between Pittsburg and Jacksonville. Excursioinsts have not less than a dozen different routes from which to select in purchasing their tickets by the Pennsylvania line. Baggage checked to destination. Tickets on sale at Union Station and 78 Fifth Avenue, Pittsburg, and at all principal stations of the Pennsylvania Railroad. For further information apply to Thos. E. Watt, Passenger Agent Western District, P. R. R., No. 78 Fifth Avenue, Pittsburg, Pa.

Arm Seriously Injured.

We received the distressing information on Tuesday, the 21st, that Henry Woodring, brakeman on the Tyrone and Clearfield railroad, met with a sad accident at 2:35 o'clock that afternoon, while making a coupling at Miller's siding at Sandy Ridge. His foot slipped, causing his right arm to be caught between the bumpers of the cars, smashing it badly. He was taken to his home in East Tyrone on an extra engine and Drs. Gemmel and Smith called in. There is a prospect that his arm will be saved. He is a brother of the conductor of the working train at this place.

Pumpkin Pies and Coffee.

The pumpkin pie and coffee reception, which was given in Association Hall on Tuesday evening, the 21st instant, was quite an unusual event both in regard to the general interest which was exhibited in it and the kind of refreshments that were served. About 125 pies were sent to the hall of the Association during the afternoon and everybody who partook of them pronounced them superior in quality. The coffee, of course, was of the best.

Music was discoursed during the evening by the young men's orchestra, and proved to be very enjoyable. A very moderate estimate of the number present during the evening is from 175 to 200.

—Mr. Patrick McLaughlin, of Lamb street, is informed that his pet bovine was out on another foraging expedition on Monday, the 21st, and succeeded in doing about $5 worth of damage in a Linn street yard. As there is no law in Bellefonte to prevent this sort of thing we don't suppose Mr. McLaughlin cares a picayune how much property his four-footed terror destroys, but if a single spark of fairness exists in his bosom the very least he can do to prove it is to slaughter that beast about Thanksgiving time and present those parties at whose expense the animal has been pastured for the past two years with a free roast. How does this suggestion strike you, Mr. McLaughlin?

—Another faith cure is reported from Bentleyville, Washington county. Richard Huffman, of that place, who is 40 years of age, has been afflicted with the spinal disease for 27 years. He had been given up as incurable by his own physician and by the entire medical society of Washington county. On Thursday, the 9th instant, he prayed for two hours in succession that he might be cured and felt a wonderful and unaccountable strength which enabled him to rise up and walk for the first time in many years. The number of such faith cures which are occurring of late is quite remarkable, as nearly every community has among its members persons who have been miraculously restored to health.

—The safe burglars who operated in this vicinity on the 21st inst. seem to have been moving in the direction of this office, which raises the frightful suspicion that they covet the piles of "guff" contained in our strong box, and contemplate a raid upon it. If such be their intentions, however, we would inform them that it would hardly pay to bother with us, as we seldom allow over six or seven thousand dollars to remain in the safe over night. And besides that, our fighting editor, who strikes seven hundred pounds when he feels well, is liable to happen in at any hour of the night.

—What is regarded as the commencement of a series of labor troubles among men who are employed in iron producing establishments started at Reading last week. Iron is dropping and the manufacturers all over that section are considering the advisability of reducing the wages of their hands. They claim that they have to do this in order that they can afford to run their establishments. The Reading ironworks, which employs about 1800 hands in all their departments, reduced pay of employes in their pipe mill about 25 per cent. and the men quit work. They say they cannot work for such low wages.

—The fourteenth semi-annual meeting of the Central Pennsylvania medical association will be held at Altoona on the 10th of December. The association embraces within its territory the counties of Cambria, Blair, Clearfield, Huntingdon, Centre, Indiana and Westmoreland. Dr. C. M. Ewing, of Tyrone, is the president of the association, and Dr. H. F. Beam, of Johnstown, the secretary.

—Judge Watson sat down on the court and legal gentlemen last week in the following fashion: While Mr. Furst was stating the agreement made in the Grand Jury room between the Court and Commissioners and Sheriff Spangler, the learned Judge said he never knew a court to sit in the grand jury room. Court should be open for everybody. It would be well for our court to heed the Judge's remarks.

—We record the death of Mrs. Elias Zimmerman, of Milesburg, who died of cancer after months of suffering. On the night of November 1st her spirit took its flight to enter upon the bliss of immortality, where she longed to go and be at rest. The age of the deceased was 70 years, 9 months and 25 days. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord."

—Get your skates sharpened, boys; the planing mill dam will soon be covered with ice.

A Commendable Commissioner.

Sometimes a full face and highly-colored complexion are detrimental to a man's interests. For instance, we have heard of a gentleman named Gill, living near Philipsburg, who refused to vote for Commissioner Campbell because he thought the then candidate for Commissioner was a drinking man. He had seen Mr. Campbell, but did not know him, merely judging from his complexion. From what he has learned since he has cause to regret that he did not vote for him. We are happy to state that Mr. Campbell's rosy cheeks are solely due to his superb health. He is a consistent member of the M. E. church and a very competent man to fill any position. Experience has demonstrated that he is a wise and judicious commissioner and one in whom the confidence of the people was well placed.

The Wedding at Huntingdon.

The event in social circles which called so many Bellefonte people to Huntingdon on the 21st was the marriage of Mr. Frank Hall, of Huntingdon, to Miss Mollie Neff, also of that place. The bride is a sister of Mrs. Lawrence Brown. The wedding took place at 6 o'clock in the Presbyterian church, after which the happy couple, accompanied by 200 invited guests, went to the bride's home, where a sumptuous collation was spread. At 8 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Hall departed for New York city. Their wedding tour will include all of the large cities.

—Jimmy Irwin casually remarked the other day that he kind o' t ought he knew who had a hand in the safe robbery, and then looked right square at Bond Valentine. But, then, good gracious! he couldn't have meant anything serious by that look, could he, think? If Bond is the chap who smashed those safes he's not the kind of a hairpin we took him for, anyhow.

Cuticura

THE NEW BLOOD PURIFIER

Resolvent

I will now state that I made a miraculous cure of one of the worst cases of skin disease known. The patient is a man forty years old; had suffered fifteen years. His eyes, scalp and nearly his whole body presented a frightful appearance. Had had the attention of twelve different physicians, who prescribed the best remedies known to the profession, such as iodide potassium, arsenic, corrosive sublimate, sarsaparilla, etc. Had paid $500 for medical treatment with but little relief. I prevailed upon him to use Cuticura Resolvent internally, and the Cuticura and Cuticura Soap externally. He did so and was completely cured. The skin on his head, face, and many other parts of his body, which presented a most loathsome appearance, is now as soft and smooth as an infant's, with no scar or trace of the disease left behind. He has now been cured twelve months.

Reported by
F. H. BROWN, Esq., Barnwell, S. C.

SCROFULA SORE.

Rev. C. ——, in detailing his experience with the Cuticura Remedies, said that through Divine Providence one of his parishioners was cured of a scrofulous sore, which was slowly draining away his life, by the Cuticura Resolvent internally, and Cuticura and Cuticura Soap externally. The poison that had fed the disease was completely driven out.

ECZEMA.

Sixteen months since an eruption broke out on my legs and both feet, which turned out to be Eczema, and caused me great pain and annoyance. I tried various remedies with no good results, until I used the Cuticura Resolvent internally, and Cuticura and Cuticura Soap externally, which entirely cured me so that my skin is as smooth and natural as ever.

—Chistmas falls upon Monday this year.—L. H. Journal. Christmas is a very big day while Monday is only one of the ordinary kind; therefore we're afraid that the effect of Christmas falling on Monday will be to crush the latter day out of existence altogether.

—The Pennsylvania Railroad should accept the proposal of our townsman, Mr. Charles McCafferty, who offers to donate the ground, opposite the present depot site, and erect a handsome brown stone building for only $17,000, which is less than the cost of the new railroad station at Tyrone.

—The Town Hall at Millheim will be a scene of considerable festivity on Christmas, at which time the Ladies' Lutheran mite society will give a grand entertainment and festival, where everything of an eatable nature will be offered for sale. The festival will be continued one week.

Large Locals.

Some of the articles in last week's Watchman are so mixed up that it is almost impossible to discover what the editor intends to say. For instance, the 4th item in the 3d column of the 8th page. Will the Watchman also please explain the peculiar significance of the word "instanther" in the same item.

Mrs. J. Howard Patton, the wife of a well-known and much honored citzen of Altoona, died Friday evening at 4:30 o'clock. She was only 22 years of age. About four months ago Mrs. Patton showed signs of failing health, and though she bore up bravely and was hopeful to the end, the skill of the physicians was unavailing. The cause of her death was an affection of the throat and lungs.

If we may believe what Puck says, Queen Victoria seriously meditates abdicating in favor of the Prince of Wales for the purpose of becoming an actress. She thinks that Mrs. Langtry reigns more supremely than any of the kings or queens of Europe, and if mere beauty can accomplish so much royalty can do more. She will make her debut in the United States. Manager Sourbeck should send his application in at an early day.

What is known as the German Hospital, located at S. W. Corner of Girard and Corinthian avenues, Philadelphia, annually appoints a certain day for receiving visitors and gifts. It is entirely dependent for its maintenance on the contributions of its patrons. This year the board of managers have selected Thanksgiving Day, November 30, as donation day, at which time they will be pleased to receive visitors and all donations that may be brought.

The holes in the pavements through which coal is put into cellars should always be tightly closed. A gentleman stepped on the smooth iron grate that covers one on High street on Friday and slipped, the grate partially opening and almost causing him to fall through the aperture. One leg went in quite deep and the gentleman was considerably shaken up. The event reminds us that we passed one on Spring street a few days ago which was only partially covered, there being imminent danger that the first unwary pedestrian would step through.

Convenient Postal Facilities.

The scheme outlined in the telegraph dispatches, which includes the adoption by the post-office department at Washington of a combined envelope, paper and stamp for business letters will effect quite a revolution in mail matters and result, as other schemes have done, in increasing the number of such communications. The merits of the new contrivance are explained as follows:

The single letter sheet is manufactured with gummed flaps, which when the sheet is folded lap over two open edges and secure the missive. The government stamp is to be embossed on one of these flaps, which comes over like the flap of an envelope and the whole thing is licked, stamped and sealed with the same motion. This brings the stamp where the old seal and wafer used to be, instead of being on the upper right hand corner as at present. The postmaster will not be compelled to apply the cancellation stamp, as the letter cannot be opened nor the embossed stamp removed without destroying the stamp. While the whole arrangement looks like a neat trick, the principal advantage is its cheapness both to the government and the business public. To the man who writes his communication on one side of the sheet, as most business men do, it will be a saving of fifty per cent. in time and expense. To the government it will be equally advantageous. It will cost but a trifle more than an ordinary envelope and in general use will save, it is alleged, half the present weight of the letter mail.

Sad Accident.

On Saturday afternoon, the 18th, a shooting match took place near the residence of Mr. Enoch Midlam, of Pine Glen. The sport passed off pleasantly for some time until one of the barrels of the gun used by Simon Walker, one of the contestants, became filled up with dirt and he began the operation of cleaning it, the other barrel being charged with shot. A companion grasped the gun while Mr. Walker cleaned the barrel in the usual way by passing a piece of cloth along its inner surface. In doing so the trigger of the gun rubbed against his clothing, causing the loaded barrel to be discharged, the shot mangling his right hand in a fearful manner. The injured hand will probably be saved, although the process of healing will take some time. We were sorry to hear of the unfortunate occurrence.

—The snow storm put a stop to some building operations.

The Hall-Neff Nuptials.

Elsewhere we briefly announce to our readers the marriage of Mr. Frank Hall, of Huntingdon, and Miss Mollie K. Neff, daughter of Mrs. Mary M. and the late Dr. H. K. Neff, also of Huntingdon. She is a sister of Mrs. Lawrence Brown, of this place. The Huntingdon Globe gives the following description of the very brilliant event:

The ushers, consisting of Messrs. Walter Clarke, Elwood Miller, John D. Dorris, Charles G. Brown, S. C. Seibert and B. F. Africa politely and gracefully seated the people, and the scene was a happy one as the people gayly chatted in anticipation of the event. Beautiful ivy, ferns and flowers were placed in the altar, which added greatly to the effect of the scene. Just as the clock had finished striking 6, the bridal party entered the church and marched to the chancel by the inspiring strains of the Mendlessohn march, performed on the organ by Frank Cremer. The party consisted of the six ushers, followed by the Misses Francis S. Gage, Ella Brown, Annie Scott and Carrie Kramer, bridesmaids, with Ettie Maquire and May Miller as flower girls. At the chancel Mr. Hall awaited the coming of the party, accompanied by his best man, Alexander Anderson, Esq. Professor Jule Neff, brother of the bride, gave her away and Rev. Freeman, as the servant of God, in the impressive ceremony of the Presbyterian church, made them man and wife. The ceremony was performed with a ring, the bride and groom, with joined hands, kneeling on a chancel foot-stool. The ceremony being over, the little flower girls led the party, strewing the path with their fragant blossoms and flowers. The bride was beautifully attired in an elegant white embroidered mull, wore a veil and carried a handsome bouquet of fresh flowers. She moved with becoming grace, and her friends declared she looked altogether sweet. The groom was attired in the customary broadcloth. Two of the bridesmaids were attired in elegant pink and and the other two in blue. They each carried bouquets and looked very well in their tasteful costumes and smiling faces.

Potatoes.

The following advice from an exchange is pertinent, as there may be some persons who have stored their potatoes in such a manner that they will not keep during the winter and it may not be to late to remedy the evil: To store potatoes properly we have to guard against heating for although the potato will not absolutely ferment by heat asso much vegetable matter will, a heap becomes warm enough to excite the germfungus there may be in the tuber, and this exhalation may be sufficient to cause decay, which can be communicated to roots in which the symptom of rot exists. Moisture is favorable to heating, and hence it is better to have the potato dry before storing if any considerable quantity is to be put away in bulk. Thus if they are spread on a barn floor or other cool place out of the sun before putting into a root cellar they will be safe against rotting. When potatoes are perfectly healthy there is not so much necessity for this care in drying. Hundreds of bushels are often taken at once from the field to the cellar without any damage whatever resulting; and it is only in view of the possibility of rot that we think it advisable to take the extra precaution in drying. It is well to note that a cool shed is the best to dry them in, as the tubers will otherwise absorb more than when they come out of the ground, and this is what we try to avoid.

—The funeral services over the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McCoy, whose death occurred on Thursday, was held on Saturday morning at 11 o'clock. The little one lived only a few brief months in this unfriendly world and was transported from earth to heaven, so early entering upon the bliss of immortality. Dark sorrow broods over the household when the little one upon whom our affections have been placed is removed, but oh! the consoling thought of how much pain and sorrow has been kept from at least one immortal creature! It is enough to bring abundant consolation. Let pure white flowers cover her baby bosom! Let glistening tears fall upon the coffin lid—but not all of desolate sorrow—more of affection and love—and e'en of thankfulness when we know "our darling" is with the angel band.

—Rev. W. D. Leitzell, for the last ten years pastor of a Lutheran church in Clarion county, resigned lately and accepted a call to the pastorate of the Brookville Lutheran church. Mr. Leitzell is a native of Aaronsburg, and a son-in-law of Judge Love, deceased. He has risen to prominence in the Lutheran church.

A Hunter Relieved of His Booty.

Two farmers living in this vicinity started out on a hunting expedition last week, going in the direction of the Seven Mountains. They met with excellent success, shooting a deer early in the day. While tramping through the woods the hunters became separated and one of them was surprised to come suddenly upon a bear. Taking careful aim he shot and succeeded in killing the animal. At this juncture a party of hunters from Mifflin county came along and seeing the dead bear claimed it as their own. Our hunter remonstrated, but the Mifflin county men leveled their guns at him and told him not to touch it. Although the man who had shot the bear and who had a perfect right to claim it, was armed with a sixteen-shooter, he gave the animal up to the party from Mifflin county and escaped from their presence as soon as possible. People who heard of the affair are indignant at the man for yielding so easily and also at the Mifflin county Nimrods for their unjust act. It won't do for any Mifflin county hunters who were out last week to crow over their success; as there is not much glory in carrying a bear home after the animal has been killed by another party.

Tribute of Respect.

At a meeting of Old Fort Lodge, No. 537, F. and A. M., held at Centre Hall, November 20, 1882, the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased the Supreme Master of the Universe to remove from the Lodge below to the Supreme Lodge above our beloved brother and fellow Mason, James H. McCormick;

Resolved, That while we bow in humble submission to the will of Him who doeth all things well, we will ever cherish the memory of one who, by his brotherly deportment in and out of the Lodge, endeared himself to all;

Resolved, That while we deplore his loss we will strive to emulate his Masonic example and so live that our good deeds may follow;

Resolved, That we extend to the bereaved family not only our heartfelt sympathy, but that charity which has distinguished the Masonic fraternity from time immemorial;

Resolved, That our Lodge be draped in mourning, and that a copy of these resolutions be handed to the family of the deceased and be published in the county papers and "Keystone."

Remember This—

The days will continue to decrease in length until the 21st of December.

The transit of Venus is not an annual occurrence.

Thanksgiving day is on the 30th of this month (to-morrow.)

One hundred and fifty thousand dollars does not include all the building and improvements made in this place during the present year. Our estimate was exceedingly moderate and we have no doubt the entire amount would reach two hundred thousand.

The trains on the B. E. V. R. R. do not always arrive on time.

That it is not at all appropriate to call the coming great annual holiday "Fourth of Ju Christmas."

That we'll have more than a week of cold weather before the swallows homeward fly again.

—It is announced that in his solar researches Professor Langley finds that "the absolute color of the photosphere is blue, and that the maximum energy in the visible spectrum is in the region of the orange." This discovery is timely, as it will tend in a marked degree to mitigate the disappointment which exists in political circles at present. To know that the absolute color of the photosphere is blue, and not greenery-yallery, is well calculated to reconcile a defeated candidate, especially those in Centre county.

—Mrs. Isaac Weiland, of Central City, near Milesburg, this county died on Saturday night last (the 18th) about 12 o'clock. She was taken with convulsions in the morning, and the approach of the grim messenger was rapid. A husband and four small children are left to mourn her departure. The funeral took place on Monday (the 20th), the remains being interred in the cemetery at Milesburg. Rev. Mr. Morris conducted the services.—Watchman.

—The manner in which the trains on the B. E. V. R. R. are run is very disagreeable to the people of Bellefonte. It is especially so on Saturday night. The 5 p. m. train is never on time. It brings valuable mail matter, which, because the train is always an hour or two late, does not reach its owners until an hour that renders it impossible to answer important communications before Monday morning. Cannot this be remedied?

—The opera "Taffy," given at Lock Haven last week, was not well attended and proved a financial failure.

Personal Pencilings.

John Curtin, Esq., makes frequent visits to Lock Haven.

Mr. Wilmer Malin celebrated the 11th anniversary of his married life on Thursday of last week.

Monte Ward, the celebrated baseballist, will remain in this vicinity until the first of next month.

Miss Sadie Ardell, of Bloods, N. Y., is a guest at the residence of our popular townsman, Mr. John Ardell.

Charles Glenn, the photographer, practiced his art upon the visages of a few Swedes on Monday afternoon of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Williams arrived in town on Friday evening and have settled quietly down to the bliss of married life.

Rev. Donahue, at one time pastor of the M. E. church here, but now of Bloomsburg, accompanied a railroad excursion party that visited Wilkesbarre on Friday.

Mrs. William Calderwood, residing at Hannah Furnace, who is sixty years of age, is cutting the third set of teeth, she having three through the gums and another nearly so.

Mrs. Hoffer and Miss Margaret Proner, of this place, left on Friday, the 17th, for Boston to visit Miss Sallie Hoffer, a daughter of the first-mentioned lady who is attending school in that city. They will remain until after Thanksgiving.

—The commissioner of the general land office has declared the firm of "Gazzam & Co., P. O. address Station L, New York," to be a fraud. Their scheme was to send out to ex-soldiers circulars promising to lease land for then under the provisions of the soldiers' homestead act and then sell the relinquishments for a handsome profit over the fees charged by the firm. The soldier's actual residence was declared to be unnecessary to a successful location. The whole scheme, the commissioner says, is in violation, of law, and the evidence in the possession of the land office shows that many persons have been victimized by this firm and its branches.

At the Presbyterian Church.

At the Presbyterian church on Sunday morning Rev. Wm. Laurie preached from a part of the 22d verse of the 16th chapter of Luke, "And it came to pass, that the beggar died, and was carried by the angels into Abraham's bosom."

In his discourse upon the above text, the congregation had presented to them a vivid pen picture of the glory which breaks upon the soul of the saint when the freed spirit has left forever behind it all the darkness, and sorrow and tears of earth, and stands within the jasper walls of the heavenly Jerusalem, to go no more out.

Such intellectual and spiritual truths are seldom enjoyed by any congregation.

An Enjoyable Gathering.

On Saturday evening a party of young ladies gathered at the residence of Mr. Graham, on Allegheny street, at the invitation of his daughters. A very unusual circumstance about the party was that there were no gentlemen in it. The particular kind of pleasure indulged in can only be imagined, but those who were there say that they enjoyed themselves to a greater degree than on former occasions when gentlemen were present. We must take their word for it as young ladies always tell the truth, but we are nonplused, nevertheless.

—The expenses attending the inauguration of our Governors is the subject of many newspaper articles. It seems the first money paid out of the State treasury for the purpose was 75 dollars at the inauguration of Governor Pollock in 1855; and following this in order, $229.63 for Governor Packer's inauguration in 1858; $3171.50 for Governor Curtin's in 1861; his second cost $1,092.78 in 1864; Gov. Geary's $1,336.77 in 1867—and $1,900 in 1870; Hartranft's $5,000 in 1873—and in 1876, $4,357; Hoyt's $4,100 in 1879; Pattison's $000,000 in 1882.

—The Centre Reporter has information which is considered reliable, that the work on the Bellefonte and Buffalo Run railroad is to go on at once and to be completed this winter, around to Lemont via. State College, and then to be followed by completing the road from Spring Mills to Lemont. The former will be built by a company separate from the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and the latter, of course, by the Pennsylvania Company.

—The Julian minstrels are giving entertainments in some of the neighboring towns. Do the members of it hail from our own Centre county July Ann?

—The auditors of Clearfield county refuse to perform their official duties.

—Ministers in this place who experience difficulty in collecting money might follow the example of a western clergyman to advantage. Before announcing his text he remarked "Several members of this congregation say that my sermons are entirely too long. Well, brethren, the collections are always very short, and between the pulpit and the pews we average things just about right." And then the good old man sailed in and let them have clear through to 17thly and 12:30 oclock, but they rattled him in a collection that fairly made the basket creak.

—The first week of regular quarter sessions' court began on Monday.
